Big Defense Hike To Be Asked

New Budget May Exceed $50 Billion

Washington (UPI) — The administration will ask congress in January for an estimated $2 billion to $3 billion increase in the nation's biggest appropriations item — the defense budget.

Government authorities gave this rough figure Tuesday on the basis of best current assessments of needs during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The boost would send the defense figure over the $50 billion mark and establish a new high exceeded only during World War II.

Officials said a big increase is inevitable, even though the overall budget is headed for a deficit, and despite Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's orders to "ruthlessly eliminate" defense items that cost more than they are worth.

Momentum Is There

Experts said the new defense budget would be boosted by close to $2 billion by the momentum of military expansion President Kennedy has ordered during the first two years of his administration.

An increase on that order will be necessary to maintain expanded land, sea and air forces, and a host of weapons, from rifles to rockets. There apparently will not be much left over for wholly new weapons or space projects.

Moreover, the budget is likely to increase in the year after next and then possibly reach a plateau in the mid-1960s.

The remainder of next year's boost probably will depend mainly on the pay increase McNamara decides to seek for the armed forces. If he asks for 10%, which seems possible, that would increase the military payroll by about $1 billion and put total military spending in the vicinity of $51.3 billion.

$48 Billion for Current Year

Outlays for the current year will total $48.3 billion. McNamara was described as determined to resist any effort to shave the budget below what he and his experts decide are essential amounts for supporting U.S. foreign policy, regardless of any overall federal deficit.

He frequently has said the country can afford whatever it needs, and cannot build its military strength under "arbitrary" dollar ceilings.

"We can predict nothing but a substantial increase in the actual expenditures" for next year," he said as long ago as July 6.

People-Watching Rabbit Calmly Defies All Laws

By NANCY RAY
Star Staff Writer

There's a giant self-satisfied people-watching rabbit living in the 600 block of South 44th, calmly defying both natural and civil law.

Residents of the area report she's been around for almost a year now. At first everyone thought she belonged to "someone else" in the neighborhood, and accepted her as a pet.

If she has an owner, she certainly snubs him, spending the majority of her time calmly viewing passing cars and people from a sunlit spot in someone's front yard.

Or, in inclement weather, she seems to prefer the shelter underneath a car — any car — parked conveniently on the street.

the public power program in Nebraska."

Schacht noted that the legislative committee had even refused to spend the $25,000 allocated to it by the 1961 Legislature.

"They decided they didn't need outside help," he declared. "We would be presumptuous to say they do need outside help."

NPPC Chairman C. F. Moulton, general manager of OPPD, suggested that if such a study is needed, "we should do it together . . . and we should pay for it ourselves."

Lester Trussell of Beatrice argued that a comprehensive study is needed prior to reorganization "to assure the people of the lowest possible cost electric service."

Trussell is general manager of Norris.

R. D. McWha of North Platte, representing Platte Valley, said he "feel(s) the Legislature needs professional help" and until it is provided, "we should hold the line."

But, Schacht countered, "the industry has asked for as much time as it should be granted. The senators have been very patient."

The resolution was introduced by Grand Island utilities commissioner Frank Phelps.

Earlier, Thompson told the Legislative Council that the proposed reorganization would involve "a process over a period of time . . . not next year or the year after."

Rather Puzzling To Non-Reds, Too

By The Associated Press

Do you understand what the Soviet-Chinese communist squabble is all about? It's easy. Here it is, in a nutshell, from the Red Chinese newspaper Red Star of Nov. 16:

"All communists must work hard to raise their ability to distinguish Marxism-Leninism from revisionism, to distinguish the way of opposing dogmatism with Marxism-Leninism from that of opposing Marxism-Leninism with revisionism under the cover of opposing dogmatism, and to distinguish the way of opposing sectarianism with proletarian internationalism from that of opposing proletarian internationalism with great-nation Chauvinism and narrow nationalism under the cover of opposing sectarianism."

If you don't dig that, you've "lost touch with the masses" and are guilty of what Red Flag calls "closed-doorism."

Sen. Javits Foresees '64 Tussle

... On GOP Front

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Tuesday he has "little doubt" that the 1964 Republican National Convention would produce a head-on clash between backers of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Javits told a news conference that liberal-conservative battles have occurred at most recent GOP presidential nominating conventions and "I think we can expect no less" in 1964.

He said he was wholeheartedly supporting Rockefeller for the nomination. Javits said he had no intention of allowing himself to be injected into consideration for either the presidential or vice presidential nomination.

Javits said he felt his smashing re-election victory, winning normally Democratic New York City, indicated a clear mandate that the Republicans must present "programs and platforms that must appeal to cities."

The New York Republican also said he did not think Republicans should base their efforts for gains in the South on trying to "out-segregate the segregationists," as he said some GOP Southern candidates sought to do in the recent congressional elections.

Better Chance Elsewhere

"I believe we should make a bid for the South," he said, but added that the party has a better chance for gains in other sections of the country. "Our best chance in the South is a moderate position that segregation must go," he told newsmen.

Javits also said: "He does not think former Vice President Nixon has been 'cast into darkness' by his defeat in California. 'He should be consulted and used . . . He has too much of an investment in us and we have in him.'"

'REALLY GONE' CASE Baffles LOCAL POLICE

Lincoln police are baffled as to how it happened and they weren't sure at first that it had.

An aged typewriter, used for many years by newspaper police reporters to type their stories, has apparently been stolen from the second floor of the police station itself.

The machine was first missed last Friday.

At first everyone thought someone had lifted the machine as a joke. First all officers were told the joke had gone on long enough — but that didn't turn up the machine.

Now it is officially listed as stolen.

Only theory offered so far is that someone, perhaps a jail trusty, placed in on the jail's food elevator and sent it to the kitchen, from where it could have been smuggled out in a garbage can.

U.N. Hails Kennedy's Statement

... On Bombers Removal

United Nations, N.Y. (UPI) — Diplomats Tuesday night hailed President Kennedy's news conference announcements as marking the end of the military phase of the Cuban crisis.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov were expected to continue negotiations on the diplomatic phase: "Adequate verification" of the removal of offensive weapons systems, and "lasting safeguards" against their reintroduction into Cuba.

It was possible, informed sources said, that Stevenson and Kuznetsov might pursue such talks Wednesday.

Pledge Unfulfilled

Diplomatic consensus was that Kennedy, while noting lack of fulfillment of the verification and safeguard provisions of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's Oct. 28 pledge, had carried out the U.S. end of the agreement by stating: "We shall neither initiate nor permit aggression in this hemisphere."

Acting Secretary General Thant, centerpiece in the negotiations carried on here and in New York for the past 3 weeks, had no advance information on Kennedy's announcement.

Although Thant relayed Fidel Castro's midnight message agreeing to U.S. demands for the removal of Soviet jet bombers from Cuba, he was not informed in advance of Khrushchev's concurrence, which Kennedy was understood to have received about 4 p.m. EST.

Border Span Plot Is Foiled

... By Mexican Army

Matamoros, Mexico (AP) — The Mexican army broke up what it called Tuesday a plot to destroy two bridges linking the United States and Mexico at this northeastern Mexico point.

Sources here and in Mexico City blamed the plot partly on pro-Castro individuals.

Security at U.S. embassies and consulates was tightened. The plot was disclosed on the eve of the 52nd anniversary of Mexican independence, a favorite time for demonstrations.

200 Sticks of Dynamite

The Mexican news service Informex said 200 sticks of dynamite were found when soldiers raided Hotel San Francisco in Matamoros Monday night and arrested 10 persons.

Gen. Juan Trujillo said several plastic bombs were picked up, along with plans to dynamite the international bridges and several public buildings. There were no guns confiscated.

The general said the men planned to destroy the gateway and old bridges which link Matamoros and Brownsville, Tex., across the Rio Grande.

EASIER-TO-UNDERSTAND FEDERAL BUDGET URGED

Washington (AP) — The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has urged upon President Kennedy a less bulky federal budget accounting for all cash taken in and spent.

The recommendations of a 20-member committee of the chamber for improving the presentation of the budget were submitted to the President Monday and made public by the White House Tuesday.

The committee recommended that "a comprehensive cash budget should be the principal vehicle for the President to present his annual financial plans to the congress and the public."

Eventual Replacement

It said such a budget should eventually replace what is known as the administrative budget, which receives most public attention.

The committee pointed out that the administrative budget includes only 70% of federal receipts and expenditures, saying this is an inadequate presentation of financial plans.

The present administrative totals omit such things as trust fund receipts and payments because this money is not available for general purposes.

The committee took a firm stand against adoption of a capital budget. This, in effect, is a dual budget system, one for current operating expenditures, the other for capital outlays. Unlike a private business, the committee said, there is no proper reason for the federal government to capitalize expenditures.

"In Brief" Ran 64 Pages

The committee made several suggestions for reducing the size of the budget. Last year, it noted, the budget in brief ran 64 pages.

It said some non-essential detail could be eliminated from the documents and submitted directly to the appropriations committees of Congress.

"Public acceptance and understanding will improve in direct relation to reductions in its size and complexity," the committee said.

TEENAGE THEFTS THREATEN AN END OF MISSOURI BOYS TOWN

St. Louis (AP) — Wholesale thefts from his automobile agency by a teenage gang may force the man who founded Boys Town of Missouri out of business.

"I'm already spending $1,000 a month for protection and the cost is going up," said William F. James, who led the drive in 1948 to establish the Missouri Boys Town for underprivileged youths.

Charles Hogan, an official of James' car agency, said the $1,000 was paying for 3 night watchmen at the agency.

"And it looks like we might have to hire another watchman if the thefts continue," Hogan said.

Nine automobiles, 50 tires, 25 carburetors, 30 radios and several mirrors, hubcaps and other car parts have been stolen since the first of the year, James said. Seven of the stolen cars have been found. One car was wrecked and the others stripped, James said.

James said he had evidence most of the thefts were committed by a high school boys gang. "They are members of good south St. Louis families," James said.

Storage Poses Some Troubles

... For Growers Of Bumper Crops

The bumper proportions of Nebraska's corn and milo crops have caused some storage problems, government crop observers reported Tuesday.

"Local storage facilities in the eastern districts are insufficient to handle the bumper crops and some farmers have constructed additional bins and cribs," the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics noted in its weekly crop report.

"A shortage of rail cars is delaying movement of the grain to terminal storage points," the report added.

Rain, snow and cold weather over the weekend delayed completion of the corn and milo harvest. By Saturday, the sorghum harvest had reached the clean-up stage and slightly less than one-fifth of the corn was still in the fields.

Other crop report observations: The soybean and sugar beet harvest is finished except for

March Of Dimes Chairmanship Goes To Corn

Bob Corn, Papillion business and civic leader and veteran March of Dimes volunteer worker, has been appointed state chairman for the January March of Dimes, it was announced by Basil O'Connor, president of The National Foundation.

Corn will organize and coordinate the efforts of thousands of Nebraska volunteers

January 2-31 in the 25th anniversary March of Dimes appeal to "Give for the life of a child" disabled by birth defects, arthritis or polio.

"My first real interest in the March of Dimes began when my older brother, Neal, was taken by polio," said Corn, "and was more recently intensified when my sister's little boy was born both blind and deaf."

"I was shocked to learn," Corn declared, "that more than a quarter of a million American babies are born each year with significant birth defects and that thousands of youngsters are being denied a normal childhood because of arthritis."

Corn, 36, is married and has two children, Marilyn, 16, and Kathy, 15. He is a 14-year veteran March of Dimes volunteer and chapter leader in Sarpy County. He has been Papillion postmaster during the same 14-year period, and is an active business and civic leader in his home community.

Nelson Receives 3-Year Sentence For Kidnaping Tot

Guthrie, Okla. (AP) — Billy Don Nelson, 27, was sentenced to 3 years in prison Tuesday after his plea of guilty to a charge of kidnaping.

Nelson entered his plea Monday as his district court trial began. The charge carries a penalty from 1 to 10 years. District Judge Robert L. Pert pronounced sentence.

Nelson was charged with abducting Brenda Marlene Jennings, then 3 years old, in June 1960. The girl was found in Omaha, Neb., in November, 1961.

Brenda lives here with her mother, Mrs. Harley Sax. The girl is the daughter of Mrs. Sax by a previous marriage.

Fort Robinson Hereford Bull Sells For $1,700

Crawford—Twenty-one yearling Hereford bulls sold for an average of $1,103 each at the Fort Robinson Beef Cattle Research Station.

The top price of $1,700 for one bull was paid by Gunther F. Flier, Hermosa, S. D. Buyers who paid the next highest prices were: Wesley F. Hansen, North Platte, $1,550; Edwin F. McFall, Antioch, $1,500; Hallie Dierex & A. J. and Edwin F. McFall, Antioch, $1,425.

In addition to the yearling bulls, 5 progeny tested sires were offered for sale. The top price of $2,600 for one sire was paid by Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. Midwest Genes, Inc., Anoka, Minn., paid the second highest price of $2,400.

The bulls were surplus to the needs of the research program at the Fort Robinson Station. Records on these bulls were available to the buyers. The records included: weaning weight, weaning conformation score, 550-day weight and 550-day conformation score. Previous production records of the dams of these bulls also were available.

A total of 150 persons from 5 states attended the sale and heard a discussion of the research program at the Fort Robinson Station.

5 Counties Back Woodward For NFO Candidacy

Fremont (AP) — Representatives from 5 counties have endorsed the candidacy of Harold Woodward for the presidency of the National Farmers Organization.

Representatives of other counties among the 34 represented at a meeting here said they wanted to discuss the question with members in their counties.

Woodward led the holding action in the Omaha market area in September.

Orville Lenz of Elmwood, Nebraska state NFO director, reported that while it had been announced earlier that the current president, Oren Lee Staley, had said he would not seek re-election, "I understand he has changed his mind."

Hylton Pleads No Contest To Bank Charges

York (UPI)—Harry I. Hylton pleaded no contest Tuesday to two counts of misrepresenting records of the Gresham State Bank. District Judge Elmer Scheele of Lincoln deferred sentence.

Hylton remained free on bond.

Hylton was charged in connection with shortages at the bank which the State Banking Department said amounted to more than half a million dollars.

Hylton, who was vice president of the bank, told investigators he and cashier Arthur Walford were aware the money was being misappropriated. He said the shortages went back more than 31 years. Walford shot and killed himself as state examiners appeared at the bank.

Efforts to reorganize the bank are under way.

McGovern Holds 334-Vote Margin

Sioux Falls, S.D. (AP) — Democrat George McGovern held a 334-vote lead over Republican incumbent Sen. Joe Bottom Tuesday after Bottom lost 100 votes.

The latest totals, which gave McGovern 128,768 and Bottom 128,434, came from a recount by the Beadle County canvassing board.

County auditor Kenneth Bauman said the error was in recording of the vote.

South Dakota's statewide canvass now is complete except for Aurora County, which checked its results Tuesday, two weeks after the Nov. 6 general election.

Aunt Maggie, Now 100, Retains Her Irish Wit

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice—Condense a century of Irish wit into the instant of a smile and you have Aunt Maggie.

The little lady—only strangers know her as Mrs. C. F. Allen—was herself the main entertainment as she hailed friends at the party observing her 100th birthday Tuesday.

Formalities scared her away from the Irish jig she likes to do at home, but dulled her poetic tongue not one whit.

"I'm young and gay and in the way, but that beats being old and gray," she quipped.

A Beatrice resident over half her life, the sprightly widow has lived alone since the 1925 death of her husband, Frank. He was a railroad conductor and two-term member of the state legislature.

A special twinkle comes to Maggie's eye as she tells of dancing at the governor's ball in 1920. It's the same sparkle which was present last spring when she was honored as the eldest person attending the Homestead Centennial.

Mrs. Allen received a message of congratulations late Tuesday from President John F. Kennedy.

A Pennsylvania native, the woman recalls attending the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876 just before coming to Nebraska. Her grandfather had homesteaded in Clay County, where she then lived until marrying and moving to Grand Island.

Proudly as Catholic as she

is Irish, Mrs. Allen beamed at a special birthday mass in her honor. The reception, attended by nieces and nephews, who are her closest relatives, was sponsored by the Altar Society of St. Joseph Church.

Incidentally, there will be no Thanksgiving turkey for the centenarian this Thursday.

Remarking that she "observes Thanksgiving every day as I say my rosary," she explained that she much prefers oysters to the traditional fowl.

"Especially oyster pancakes and oyster pie," she grinned. "They're lickin' good."

Fields' Death Is Blamed On Crash Injuries

Beatrice (AP) — The traffic death of B. B. Fields, 48, of Pawnee City, was belatedly reported Tuesday.

Sheriff Fred Steinkamp Jr. said he had learned that Fields, injured in an accident Oct. 22, had died in a Beatrice hospital Oct. 31.

Fields was driving alone in a pickup truck when it missed a junction 8 miles west of Beatrice.

The death was the 345th traffic fatality in the state this year compared to 296 on the same date a year ago.

Commission Put Centennial Group 'Out Of Business'

Omaha (AP)—Chairman Frank Latenser of the Centennial Committee recalled Tuesday that the group "just went out of business when the Centennial Commission was named."

He said the group named under interim Gov. Dwight Burney was an "initial centennial planning committee" and met only once, on Nov. 15, 1960, in Lincoln.

It suggested appointment of a Centennial Commission, establishment of a state centennial office by 1964 and the appropriation of funds for centennial activity.

Members included W. D. Aeschbacher, director of the Nebraska State Historical Society; Bob Thomas, Norfolk; Ray Simmons, Fremont; Harold Prichard, Falls City; Mrs. Fern Hubbard Orme, Lincoln; George W. Knight, Lincoln; Arthur Carmody, Trenton, and Le Roy Bahensky, St. Paul.

Ainsworth, Valentine Joining Forces To Seek Air Service

Valentine (AP) — Representatives of Ainsworth and Valentine agreed Tuesday to jointly seek air service for the area.

If an airline could be sold on serving the area, it would be left to the carrier to determine which city's airport would be used, it was agreed at a luncheon meeting.

State Aeronautics Director James Sandstedt told representatives of the two cities that both North Central and Frontier Airlines have applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for service from Rapid City, S.D., to Lincoln or Omaha. He said he doubted that either airline would want to serve both cities.

The meeting decided on creation of a joint committee to represent both cities to seek commitment from an airline to serve the area and to do everything possible to get certification for the service.

The next step in the cooperative effort is to pick the committee to pursue the matter.

The two Sandhills communities are about 40 miles apart.

DON'T LET THE NAMEPLATE FOOL YOU...

THIS BIG ONE'S IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD

INTRODUCING THE 1963 DODGE

The low-price field is about the last place a traditionalist would expect to find Dodge. The Dodge name has been associated with the medium-price boys since Hector was a pup. But the fact remains: the '63 Dodge is priced down with good old cars "F" and "C". Now, you can stay with the low price and get a lot more car. The name proves it: Dodge! You get the room Dodge is famous for. You get a torsion-bar ride. You get a V8 loaded for bear. (Or, a gas-saving 6 with the muscle of conventional V8's.) And if that isn't enough to turn the other two green with envy, how's this for a clincher? Every '63 Dodge is backed by a 5-year/50,000 mile warranty.*

*Your authorized Dodge Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair without charge for required parts or labor for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first: on the engine block, head and internal parts; transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch); torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints (excluding dust covers), rear axle and differential; and rear wheel bearings—provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Dodge Certified Car Care schedule.

What Will Guide Legislature?

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The course the state will travel for another two years will soon be set by the Legislature. Senators have met this week as the Legislative Council and its various committees to give a broad outline of possible major fields of legislation. From this meeting it is impossible to say what the tone of the Legislature will be when senators return for official business after the first of the year. Committee by committee, the senators demonstrated an awareness that is commendable.

In at least five specific cases, committees called for action demanding the expenditure of more state funds. Should these recommendations be followed, there would be greater incentive in watershed development, in tourism, in access to recreation areas, in small community developments and in personnel matters. In the case of personnel, the committee has recommended a retirement system to cover some 5,300 state employees at an estimated state cost of $725,000 a year. Other committees have made proposals which might also call for minor increases in state expenditures.

Thus, in their committee work the senators have not demonstrated any lack of spirit. But this is only the beginning of things. Those things mentioned above, all calling for additional expenditures, will come into competition with departmental budget requests which now total an average biennial increase of 29 per cent.

Discussed elsewhere on this page is the report of the powerful Budget Committee and this group gives no signs of any relaxation of its tight-fisted policy of two years ago. When department budgets were concluded, Gov. Frank Morrison was quoted as saying: "Of course, requests will be cut — it's a question of how much . . . It's a very rare government agency . . . that thinks it doesn't need as much money as it gets."

Sen. Don Thompson of McCook had, perhaps, the most disappointing statement of all when he commented on a proposed income tax as a replacement for the property tax. He said he thought the constitution would have to be changed before we adopted such a tax because it now calls for elimination of the property tax if any state sales or income tax is enacted. "The state," he reasoned, "might be in a tough spot for funds if the economy declined and there was no recourse to the property tax for additional needed revenue." That seems to be going a little too far in searching out the possible pitfalls into which one might fall. The end of the world might come in 1964, too, so we might as well spend like drunken sailors today and let our devastation bail us out. One idea makes about as much sense as the other.

If the Legislature and the people of the state constantly take counsel of their fears, they will end with plenty to alarm them. This is the kind of negative approach demonstrated, also, in the statement by the governor. Both statements show an excessive dread of spending money for fear that such action may leave us starving to death the next day. Technically, there is no more reason to assume that budgets will be cut than there is to assume that every penny asked for will be granted. What the governor's attitude does is give the impression that department heads are accustomed to putting fat in their budgets, to adding a lot of programs that are impractical and impossible.

It would have been much more encouraging had the governor said that he hopes every department can be given the funds it believes are essential to do a constructive and productive job in the coming biennium. Of course, the governor would not differ with such an attitude but he approaches things from the wrong point of view.

It is probable that a majority of every committee will support at least the programs recommended by that committee but what will be their reaction to the programs of other committees and the requests of the departments? This question will not be settled until the session has opened and the time arrived for decision upon the programs brought to the floor.

It is not urged by any means that the Legislature take a careless approach to its fiscal responsibilities. Certainly, the people of the state expect their senators to be cautious with their expenditure of public funds and to make certain that there is a dollar in value received for every dollar that is spent. But the people have put no lid on spending. They have not set any spending limit beyond which the senators are forbidden to go. They have not said that they are against any particular programs simply because they don't have the money to pay for them.

They expect their senators to do what is essential for the welfare of the state and its people. Nebraskans have not adopted any sub-par standard of living for themselves in their personal lives and they don't expect a sub-par performance on the public level.

No Restrictive Limit

Future Is Bright

Among the new arrivals in Lincoln is Mrs. Lois Thomas who comes from Iowa to assume responsibilities as director of nursing at Lincoln General Hospital. Thus, Mrs. Thomas will be entering into a part of our community life that is of great importance to us all. Upon the success of the various schools of nursing in Lincoln depends the success of its graduates and the next link in that chain of events is the people who are cared for in our hospitals.

Mrs. Thomas was honored this week with a reception given by the faculty and student body at Lincoln General's school of nursing. She is already familiar with the work of young women who have entered nursing as a career but others who come in contact with these students are always pleasantly surprised.

Such contact invariably causes one to contemplate the security of the future—

Proper Ending

A month ago it looked as though U.S. participation in the next Olympic games would be extremely limited. The National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union had parted company.

More than that the NCAA had called on its coaches and schools to resign from the AAU. It also took initial steps to set up its own confederation, sponsor its own meets and outlaw AAU events. Since the AAU is the American organization recognized by the international Olympic body, the NCAA pull-out meant that the next U.S. Olympic team would have to get along the best way it could without the college stars.

The rupture was a long time developing. The NCAA controls the bulk of the athletes. It is big. It has not liked its inferior relationship with the AAU. And the

Khrushchev Engaged In Power Struggle

WASHINGTON — Two significant debates over the strategy of the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. have been taking place inside the White House and the Kremlin. Both have a direct bearing on the other — and upon the peace of the world.

From inside the Kremlin—The American embassy reports what has every appearance of being a power struggle between Nikita Khrushchev, chairman of the Communist party, and the Red Army.

The latest cable from the embassy states that Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, head of the Red Army and the man Khrushchev has deferred to on many policy matters is now bitter over the Soviet retreat in Cuba.

Malinovsky accompanied Khrushchev to Paris for the abortive summit conference in May, 1960, and has stood beside him at most official occasions during the last two years — an indication that he rates near the top of the Soviet hierarchy.

The embassy has further cabled that military officials have been downgraded inside the Kremlin, and that Khrushchev has appointed moderates to key positions — Deputy Premier Mikoyan, as negotiator in Havana; Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kusnetsov as special envoy to the United Nations; General Batov, in command of the Warsaw Pact military forces; and Alexie Kosygin, a moderate industrialist to make the big speech at the celebration of the Bolshevik revolution. It was devoid of sabre-rattling.

The American embassy reports that Khrushchev has swallowed his pride regarding the Cuban rebuff, has agreed to reopen the nuclear disarmament talks on Nov. 26 and has increased his peace propaganda.

Finally, he has sent personal letters to President Sukarno of Indonesia, President Nasser of Egypt, and President Nkrumah of Ghana, all leading neutrals, stating that his retreat in Cuba was dictated by the Soviet's sincere desire for peace.

Tending to confirm reports of military-civilian friction inside the Kremlin was a statement published in Red Star by First Deputy Defense Minister Vasily Chuykov emphasizing the fact that the Communist party, not the Russian military, must be the supreme Soviet authority.

Inside the White House there has been another significant discussion, chiefly over Russia's Ilyushin-28 bombers. This discussion also involves the military.

It has been the unanimous opinion of Kennedy's White House staff, plus his State Department advisers that these bombers are no threat to the United States. They have further warned Kennedy that by pushing Khrushchev too hard regarding them, he may be playing into the hands of the Red Army.

Abe Lincoln's Part In Setting Of Thanksgiving

NEW YORK—Millions of Americans furiously screamed out against Abraham Lincoln when, on an August day 99 years ago, he proclaimed the first national Thanksgiving.

But then, millions of Americans protested anything he might do in that year. It was the height of the Civil War.

Even some northerners, however, felt the time was inappropriate. In a time of national horror and carnage — was this a time to give thanks, they wanted to know.

Yet President Lincoln persisted.

He declared that, even in the midst of "a civil war of unequal magnitude," the country had been given a full share of "blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies."

Though Lincoln's first Thanksgiving proclamation is the most famous of any, it is one of the few speeches that Honest Abe ever "fanned out" to a ghost writer.

He was busy with the affairs of war, and his own personal prayers. So he asked Secretary William H. Seward to compose the declaration, and Seward was one of the few men, apparently, of sufficient literary bent and clarity of thought to write a masterpiece worthy of Honest Abe.

Lincoln read his friend's composition on Aug. 6, declaring the first Thanksgiving for Nov. 26, 1863.

But that was the official, lasting Thanksgiving; Lincoln has won the title of "thankfullest" president of all time by declaring two other unofficial Thanksgivings in that same year. The first came on July 15, when the President asked the people to give thanks for Gettysburg and the fall of Vicksburg. He proclaimed it a day to give homage to the Divine Majesty for "the wonderful things He has done in the nation's behalf."

The third Thanksgiving plea came Dec. 7, when Lincoln asked his citizens to thank God after the expulsion of Confederate armies from east Tennessee.

The "official" day, between these two, was long known unofficially as the "Godey's Lady's Book" "Thanksgiving Day"; this, because the editor of the fashionable magazine, Sara Josepha Hale, had persuaded President Lincoln to declare it. It took this dogged woman 35 years of badgering presidents to win her point and proclamation. And she might never have clinched her crusade if there had not been a war.

Lincoln was in a "thanksgiving" mood of prayerfulness. Today, all Americans should feel in a thanksgiving mood of prayerfulness. President Kennedy, in his proclamation, could not sincerely refer, as Lincoln did, to our country's "healthful skies." Never in history have our skies been so heavy with potential peril.

Yet, even in the face of the great nuclear threat, the persistent crises, the unsettled state of the earth—we can be more thankful than ever before that we still are here, that our turkey is hot and our war is cold.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Freedom-Security At Issue

WASHINGTON — In Britain, where Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is embroiled with a part of the press over a nasty security scandal, a characteristic British discipline has in the past been observed in matters judged in the national interest.

Principal editors and broadcasters receive from the Home Office what are called "D" notices. These highly confidential notices—frequent during World War II, less frequent since—have the approval of the prime minister. A typical "D" notice might say:

"Your attention is called to the development of a new supersonic military aircraft, the XYZ. It will be helpful if no mention whatsoever is made of this development until further notice."

While editors cannot be compelled to observe the warning in a "D" notice, the system carried over from the war has in general been effective in keeping back so-called sensitive information. The British press is, of course, as a national press far more narrowly held. Except for the large-circulation, sensational papers, which have been exploiting the scandal in the admiralty, the respect for the establishment — the powers that be — is far greater in the British than in the American press.

Although no official would admit it, Americans with high responsibility in the cold war have several times looked hopefully toward some form of discipline that would work as does the British "D" notice. In March of 1948 at the instigation of Secretary of Defense James Forrestal a committee representing all the news media was convened to hear a series of off-the-record reports. Forrestal was motivated partly by the concern of Vannevar Bush, then chairman of the Research and Development Board in the Defense Department, over news stories believed supplying vital information to the Soviet Union on America's advanced military planning.

A committee representing the news media met to hear off-the-record talks about the threat as viewed from the Pentagon. Forrestal proposed several steps which he said had been suggested to him. One was to take remedial action to prevent leaks and at the same time to declassify material that should never have been labeled secret.

He also proposed that a "security council" made up of six representatives of the news media be appointed to advise the secretary of defense on "security matters in general." But his most controversial proposal was for:

"An information advisory unit set up by the national military establishment in Washington that would function 24 hours daily to answer inquiries on certain subjects and offer guidance to the news media."

This last sounded like the "X" notice approach to guidance or even censorship. The committee, headed by Benjamin M. McKelway, editor of the Washington Star, rejected it. The council was approved with the understanding that it should have no concern with "censorship voluntary or otherwise." The remedial measures to be carried out by the Defense Department were also approved. There the matter ended with little change in the relationship between the press and the military.

Once again, with the Cuban crisis, the troubling questions that center around security versus the right to know arise. Were facts withheld to which the public was entitled? Were they distorted for propaganda purposes? Did the press publish reports prejudicial to a peaceful resolution of what was surely the gravest threat to peace since the start of the nuclear era?

Little expert opinion has been heard. James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, said that "in the most dangerous week civilization ever had" he did not feel the news had been soft-pedaled. Dean Edward Barrett of the Columbia School of Journalism said in a radio interview he felt reporters had ready access to news sources.

More perhaps than anyone in the field J. R. Wiggins, executive editor of the Washington Post, has concerned himself with the peoples' right to know. In his book, "Freedom Or Secrecy," which has become the recognized work on the subject, he reviews the various curbs proposed in the name of security and concludes that if there were real concern both within and without government for freedom of information and the standards of the press no restraints would be necessary.

"The trend toward secrecy in government," he wrote, "inspired by such fears and doubts about the safety with which information for the people can be given to the press, is pushing us farther and farther away from the concept of a free people that is the master and not the servant of its government."

It is not alone freedom of press and information, it might be added, that is eroding away in what angry critics have called "the warfare state." Under the fear, the strain and the tension of the prolonged cold war the whole structure of a free America is insecure.

Good Time Club

Lincoln, Neb.

Time marches on and we old people become increasingly infirm. Our companions die and we become lonely. Our joints stiffen, our muscles get flabby, our hearts weaken, our brains soften and we become senile.

The Good Time Club combats these infirmities. In my younger days, I used to preach that cards were the device of the devil and dancing, the toboggan-slide to hell. Experience and observation have taught us better.

Cards provide stiff mental exercise that keeps our minds clear. The dance loosens up our joints, hardens our muscles, strengthens the heart and tunes the whole system in harmony with the spheres. Even loneliness vanishes with the intimate fellowship of our kind.

I take off my hat in gracious salute to the Good Time Club.

Beermann's Thinking

Tekamah, Neb.

Now that Mr. Beermann has been re-elected to Congress for another two years, perhaps it would serve some useful purpose if those who voted for him could give at least one logical reason why.

The newly formed First Congressional District which Mr. Beermann now represents is composed largely of family-type farmers and small-town business people directly dependent upon them. Surely it is reasonable to presume that the fundamental objective any group of people would have in selecting anyone to serve in an office established for the noble purpose of providing for them a representative in the national government would be to have someone to speak for them and vote for them. The question which must then follow would seem to be: How well and in what way has Mr. Beermann fulfilled this obligation to his constituents?

Mr. Beermann voted against every piece of farm legislation brought before the House during his previous two years in Washington. Apparently he does not believe that the farmer could or should be protected from corporation pressure tactics and eventual takeover by any kind of government farm programs. What, then, does he believe? He has said that the farmer should have the right to fail. He seems convinced that a government farm program does help prevent this questionable opportunity.

He has said that the farmer should remain free and that we should ask others to join us. This would seem to imply that the farmer should remain unorganized and should seek to solve his problems by asking organized industry and labor to disorganize also. This proposal has all the logic of a man fighting the wind or a man fighting the weather conditions because he refused the protection of a house simply out of fear of the possibility that its walls would be much too confining.

Since his re-election to Congress, Mr. Beermann has said that he is a long-time member of the Farm Bureau. Had this statement been made before election, it might have reduced his vote count considerably. However, it does shed some light on his thinking, or lack of it. The old Benson Farm Bureau farm program and the recently proposed corporation-sponsored Committee for Economic Development (CED) are one and the same. This program seeks not to aid the family-type farmers but to eliminate them. Two million of them, to use the CED's own figures. This, then, is Mr. Beermann's idea as to what should be done about the farm problem.

Mr. Beermann has said that it is criminal for the farmer to withhold food from the market. In other words, that the farmer does not have or should not have the same rights as those enjoyed by every other segment of the economy — the right to price his products and hold for that price. Does Mr. Beermann seriously believe that once agriculture is controlled by corporations, they will not demand a price for the food they produce? Does Mr. Beermann really know what he is doing — does he really know anything?

Mrs. Mitch's Dream Comes True; She Won't Be Stuffed And Roasted

Jackson, Mich. (AP)—A turkey named Mrs. Mitch has attained a turkey's dream: a guarantee that she won't end up on someone's dinner table Thanksgiving Day.

In fact, Mrs. Mitch has so endeared herself to the Allyn R. Kehr family that she may be eating Thanksgiving dinner with them instead of being eaten.

After all, the Kehrs have known Mrs. Mitch practically ever since she was an egg and you just don't go eating your life-time friends for Thanksgiving dinner — Even if the friend is a turkey.

3 In Classroom

Mrs. Mitch was hatched in an incubator in the science classroom of Mrs. Robert Henry.

As Mrs. Mitch outgrew the incubator it became necessary for Mrs. Henry who lives in a hotel, to find a new home for her. Mrs. Mitch was adopted by the Kehrs early last summer.

Mrs. Mitch developed quite a personality. She romped with the neighborhood children and followed the family around. When not roaming in the backyard, she stayed in the Kehrs' garage.

Assistant

This fall Mrs. Mitch became sort of an assistant science teacher.

She accompanied Mrs. Henry on her teaching rounds at Jackson Elementary School. "It's surprising the number of students who have not had the chance to see a live turkey before," Mrs. Henry said.

Mrs. Mitch struts around the room while the children discuss how a turkey is different from other birds. If Mrs. Mitch likes somebody she lets it be known right away. She walks up to him and makes with her best glassy eyed stare.

Guarantee

This is how Mrs. Mitch got her guarantee that she won't be somebody's Thanksgiving dinner.

Now that cold weather is here, Mrs. Kehr says they must find another home for Mrs. Mitch. "We have no place to keep her where she can be warm and comfortable," Mrs. Kehr said.

But Mrs. Kehr said she won't give Mrs. Mitch to someone who intends to make a Thanksgiving dinner out of her. "So we'll just keep her," she said, "until after Thanksgiving."

KIPUKA IDENTIFIED

Washington (UPI) — The White House explained Tuesday what a kipuka is.

It's an Hawaiian term used to describe an island of vegetation which is completely surrounded by lava flow.

The explanation came in a White House announcement that President Kennedy had signed a proclamation adding 5,361 acres of public lands to the Craters of the Moon National Monument near Arco, Idaho. The president took this action to assure preservation of the scientific value of the 180-acre Kipuka included in the additional lands which will be added to the monument.

The White House said it will provide excellent opportunities for study of the extent to which volcanic action has modified adjacent flora and soil.

The national monument is one of the most outstanding examples of volcanic activity in the nation and gets its name from the resemblance it bears to the moon as viewed through a telescope.

Russian-Cuban Aid Treaty May Have Prodded Castro

Havana (P) — Responsible sources said Tuesday Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan has signed a new 3-year economic aid treaty with Cuba.

There were no details. But perhaps significantly the report came after disclosure that Prime Minister Fidel Castro had agreed to removal of 30 IL28 bombers delivered to Cuba by the Soviet Union. The demand for removal of the bombers was made by the United States.

The Soviet Union has been the chief economic prop of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government.

Informants said the economic agreement was signed by the visiting Soviet official and Ernesto (Che) Guevara, industries minister.

No date was given, but presumably details were worked out last week when Guevara gave a dinner for Mikoyan.

Mikoyan has been here discussing the Cuban crisis with Castro and other Cuban leaders.

An indication that there might be some connection with the economic pact and the bomber decision came from a veteran Western diplomat.

He termed Castro's letter

Dropping Of Blockade Brings Mixed Reaction

Miami, Fla. (P) — There was mixed reaction, ranging from disappointment to all-out approval, in the Cuban exile colony Tuesday night after President Kennedy announced he would end the sea blockade of Cuba.

"The United States government has betrayed the Cuban people for the second time," said Dagoberto Darias, head of an organization of veterans of the unsuccessful 1961 Cuba invasion.

Darias said his disgust was so great that he planned to leave the United States. He had not decided where he would go.

"The first betrayal," he asserted, "was on April 17, 1961, when promised U.S. air support for the invasion was not given."

"The second was tonight by giving all kinds of concessions to the Fidel Castro government," he said.

Expressions of disappointment were general in cafes where exiles gathered to hear Kennedy's broadcast.

Rogelio Cisneros, Miami head of an anti-Castro group with headquarters in Puerto Rico, said Kennedy's pronouncement was just fine. He said he has "always believed that the fight against Castro should be by the Cubans themselves. All we ask is help in the way of arms."

"The United States government has won another battle toward freedom in the world. Conditions in Cuba are again favorable for an internal uprising. Castro has been exposed as a puppet. The people know now that he is a liar."

Juan Martinez, spokesman for the Second National Front of Escambray, an underground group recently combined with Alpha 66, an action group, said their raids on Cuba, halted because of the blockade, will resume.

A spokesman for the revolutionary student directorate and some other anti-Castro leaders said their intelligence reports indicated missiles still are hidden in caves and elsewhere in Cuba.

CUBAN BATTERIES FIRE ON A LOW-FLYING PLANE

Havana (P) — Cuban anti-aircraft batteries fired Tuesday on a low-flying twin-engine plane over the Havana suburb of Miramar. The plane, presumed to be a U.S. Navy Neptune patrol plane, returned the fire briefly.

There were no reports that anyone aboard the plane or on the ground was hit. The plane flew off without apparent damage.

It was the first known incident in which Cuban anti-aircraft batteries fired on intruding airplanes in accordance with prime Minister Fidel Castro's warning against continued U.S. surveillance of Cuba.

(In Washington, a Defense Department spokesman said, "we have no information to substantiate any such report.")

Witnesses said the plane was coming in low from the West when the batteries opened up. The plane veered sharply off to the north. As it crossed open water, a Cuban patrol boat a mile offshore fired at it with machine guns.

The brief exchange took place a short distance from where anti-Castro exiles shelled from small boats a Miramar hotel housing East bloc technicians last summer. Miramar is about 4 miles west of Morro Castle, which stands at the entrance of Havana harbor.

The plane incident occurred in early afternoon. That was several hours before President Kennedy announced in Washington that the Russians had agreed to pull all offensive Soviet bombers out of Cuba and that he had ordered an immediate end to the U.S. naval blockade of Cuba.

Britain Offers Massive Aid . . . SENDING HIGH RANKING MISSION TO INDIA

London (P)—Britain offered massive military aid to India and announced Tuesday night it is sending a high ranking military mission to New Delhi to study Indian needs.

A spokesman for the commonwealth relations office said the mission is parallel to one President Kennedy announced is being sent from the United States. It was assumed the two missions will work together.

Peking's announcement that it had ordered a cease-fire on the Indian border and proposed to pull back its invading forces caught the British government by surprise, informants said.

The government had announced earlier in the day that its efforts to feel out Red China on mediation possibilities had been rebuffed.

A commonwealth relations spokesman said he had not heard from Indian authorities since Peking's announcement and was unable to say how this might affect the work of the mission. But he said the mission, composed of high military and diplomatic officials, will leave London soon.

Prime Minister Macmillan conferred Tuesday night with Indian high commissioner, M. C. Chagla, presumably on India's military needs.

A spokesman for Chagla said there had been no confirmation here of what he called "this good news" from Peking.

The commonwealth relations office emphasized that a scheduled airlift of arms to India is still on and British women and children are being withdrawn from threatened areas of India.

Decision Suggests Soviet Pressure

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Totally unexpected Red Chinese decision for a cease-fire and a pullback from the Indian frontier suggests strong Moscow pressure on Peking to the point of threatening an open break.

The Red Chinese would not carry the game that far. They had made their point. They are a power in Asia, and they have the potential to create a vast amount of mischief for the Soviet Union. But Peking still has not reached the point of risking the Kremlin's full wrath.

The Russians in recent days have seemed almost panicky in their veiled but unmistakable appeals to the free-wheeling Chinese Communists to stop rocking the world communist boat. There was evidence to suggest Soviet Premier Khrushchev was nearing the limit of his patience.

The Chinese military campaign on the Indian frontiers shook the under-developed world of Africa, Asia and Latin America, major targets of world communism. It hurt own internal economic problems, intent upon a total effort to raise production of all sorts of goods and thus buttress the U.S.S.R. for a long-pull economic war to come.

Moscow's propaganda battle with the Red Chinese was becoming painfully public and painfully embarrassing to the world movement, which faced the prospects of an irreparable cleavage. The crux of the argument was over how fast the world revolution should be spread by outright aggression and violence. The Chinese, with less to lose and more to gain, were impatient with Khrushchev's caution.

If the cease-fire order holds and the withdrawal is carried out, it is probable that Premier Khrushchev will be breathing deep sighs of relief. He may have been facing a most awkward decision should Peking have chosen to ignore him completely.

At the same time, the Soviet Union was caught up in its

Hardin—'Something Extra Is Education's Big Unmet Need'

"The greatest unmet need in education may be something extra for young people who leave school too early," University of Nebraska Chancellor Clifford Hardin said Tuesday.

Speaking at the Nebraska Association of School Administrators' annual conference which ended Tuesday, Dr. Hardin emphasized the great need for special training and courses for school dropouts and those who finish high school but not college.

"What's going to happen to these young people if they don't receive some kind of specialized training? How many unemployed, unskilled people can society have?" he asked the educators.

He cited short courses now in the experimental stage at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education as the beginning of great possibilities in the field.

3 Rs and Dust

Dr. Paul Miller, Omaha superintendent told the administrators that "you superintendents are like fullbacks and should learn to hit the line with 3 R's and a cloud of dust."

He likened critics of education to the opposing line and said: "Be glad you have them."

"They are the ones who give you a chance to really tell your stories, and don't worry about them because it's harder to be enemies of children," he said.

'It Isn't Easy'

Dr. Miller said it isn't easy to be constantly told to "look under the bed for communists" and worried about critics of spending, but "if you can't take it you shouldn't be in administration."

"You can remind these critics that at the very least, education is the biggest investment that has ever been made by people," the Omahan said.

"The gross national product of every state and every nation is directly proportional to the health and vitality of their educational systems," he added.

While "Almonds for Holiday Sweets" could encompass a legion of fancy recipes, let's settle for two right now.

"Zebra Almond Brittle" gives a new twist to a familiar candy treat. Whole almonds in a syrup-sugar-and-butter mixture are "striped" with chocolate, and the candy is broken with a wooden spoon into serving pieces when it is completely cold.

Drop cookies are so quick and easy to prepare that you'll probably be making up several batches of "Frosted Almond Crispies" during the holidays. These are crisp cookies indeed that keep well, although it may be a little difficult keeping them very long once the secret is out about their delectable almond-and-chocolate flavor combination. You may decorate the frosting however you wish—with roasted diced almonds or toasted slivered almonds or candy decorates.

ZEBRA ALMOND BRITTLE

1 cup blanched whole almonds
Salt
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 tablespoon each cream and light corn syrup
Toast almonds in 300-degree (slow) oven, turning occasionally to brown evenly. Sprinkle lightly with salt; cool. Combine sugar, 1-3 cup syrup, water and butter; cook, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking, without stirring, to 300 degrees F., or until syrup separates into hard brittle threads when dropped into cold water. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla, soda and almonds. Pour onto cookie sheet. When slightly cooled, pull edges to make a thin sheet. Combine chocolate pieces, cream and 1 tablespoon syrup. Heat over hot water or very low heat, stirring occasionally, just until mixture can be blended smooth. Cool slightly, then drizzle over brittle, zebra-stripe fashion. When candy is

Give Thanks To Indians

The Indians, we believe, were never given their share of credit for all the baked breads and abundant food treasures they brought to our first feast. Neither have they been fully eulogized for teaching the settlers how to prepare the produce they found here.

Corn meal, for instance, a staple of the Indians, soon was used by the settlers for different courses of each meal. For a delightful corn meal dessert to top this special feast day celebration, here's a traditional recipe.

INDIAN PUDDING

Boil in the top of a double boiler:
4 cups milk
Stir in:
1/2 cup corn meal
Cook for 15 minutes. Add:
3/4 cup unsulphured molasses and cook 5 minutes. Remove from the heat. Stir in:

1/4 cup butter
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ginger
3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup bottled B&B
Pour the batter into a well-greased baking dish. Bake the pudding in a slow oven (325°F) for 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Hot from the oven, serve with ice cream or whipped cream.

Seasoning

A wonderful accompaniment for beef is made by adding 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard and 1 teaspoon parsley flakes to 1 cup (8-ounce can) tomato sauce before heating.

thoroughly bold, break into pieces.

Makes about 1 1/4 lbs. candy.

FROSTED ALMOND CRISPIES

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup roasted diced almonds

Butter Cream Frosting
BUTTER CREAM FROSTING

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups powdered sugar
3 tablespoons milk
Cream shortening and sugar. Blend in eggs and vanilla. Sift flour with salt, baking powder and cocoa; add to egg mixture and mix until smooth. Stir in almonds. Drop from 2 teaspoons onto a greased cookie sheet about 3 inches apart. Bake in 375-degree (moderately hot) oven 8 or 9 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet while warm. Cool. Frost with Butter Cream Frosting and garnish as desired.

Butter Cream Frosting: Cream butter; add vanilla. Gradually mix in powdered sugar and milk alternately, a little at a time until the mixture is of spreading consistency. Beat well and spread on cookies.

Makes about 3 dozen medium-size (2 1/2-inch) cookies.

An Angel Of A Pie

Here's a light, airy pineapple dessert designed to follow the bountiful holiday meals so traditional during the Yuletide season. A froth of tender baked meringue, swirled into pretty peaks, forms the base for the tangy sweet crushed pineapple filling. A colorful crown of pineapple semi-circles and bright cherries decorates the top, and shiny green leaves are its pretty garnish.

Turkish or espresso coffee is an exciting beverage to accompany this refreshing delight. An extra note of finesse may be added by passing little butter mints in an heirloom candy dish.

YULETIDE PINEAPPLE ANGEL PIE

1 1-pound 4-ounce can crushed pineapple
2 envelopes plain gelatin
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup whipping cream
1/4 cup finely chopped candied cherries
1/4 cup finely chopped citron

Hot Biscuits

1 package refrigerator biscuits
1/4 cup margarine
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning

Bake biscuits according to package directions. Cool or split while warm. Cream margarine or butter with 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning. Spread biscuit halves with the seasoned butter or margarine, place on ungreased cookie sheet. Place in a hot oven (400°F.) or under the broiler and toast until biscuits are brown on the edge. Makes 20 half biscuits.

Baked, cooled Meringue Shell

Pineapple slices and candied cherries for garnish

Drain syrup from pineapple into pint measure; add water to make 1 1/2 cups liquid. Combine gelatin, sugar, lemon juice and salt. Add to pineapple liquid. Heat, stirring, until sugar and gelatin dissolve. Quickly stir in well beaten egg yolks. Remove from heat; add vanilla and almond extracts and drained pineapple. Cool until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Gently fold in cherries and citron. Pile into Meringue Shell. Chill until firm. Cut 3 or 4 slices of pineapple in half; arrange around top of pie. Place a cherry inside each half slice pineapple. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

MERINGUE SHELL

1/2 cup egg whites
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup flaked coconut
1/2 teaspoon almond extract

Beat egg whites to soft peaks in a small, deep bowl, along with salt and cream of tartar; beat in lemon juice. Gradually beat in sugar to make stiff meringue. Fold in coconut and almond extract. Turn into buttered 9-inch pie pan. Spread over bottom and up sides to make shell. (For a fancy edge, reserve about 1/2 cup meringue before turning into pan. Pipe through rosette pastry tube into individual rosettes around top of shell.) Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) 45 to 50 minutes or until crisp and very lightly browned. Or, place shell in preheated moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) Turn off oven and let stand 4 or 5 hours until completely cold (do not open over door).

ENGLISH TRIFLE CAKE LAYERS

1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1/2 cup sifted corn starch
3 eggs, separated
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 tablespoons water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Sift 1/2 cup of the sugar and the corn starch together three times. Beat egg whites, cream of tartar and water in large bowl with rotary beater or electric mixer until mixture forms soft peaks. Gradually beat in 1/2 cup of the sugar a little at a time. Continue beating until stiff peaks will form when beater is raised. Add yolks and vanilla; beat in just until well blended. Fold in sugar-corn starch mixture a little at a time, until it is all added and is well blended. Bake in 2 8-inch, ungreased, unlined layer pans in a 350°F. (moderate) oven 30 minutes or until top springs back when touched lightly with finger. Cool, remove from pans.

VANILLA CUSTARD

1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 egg, well beaten
3/4 teaspoon vanilla

Mix sugar, corn starch and salt in top of double boiler. Gradually add milk, mixing until smooth. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Cover and continue cooking 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. (When using glass double boiler increase cooking time to 15 minutes.) When cooked, stir in a small amount of the hot mixture into eggs. Immediately pour back into remaining hot mixture, blend thoroughly. Cook over boiling water 2 minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, blend in vanilla. Cool slightly.

TO ASSEMBLE TRIFLE

Cake layers
3/4 cup red raspberry preserves

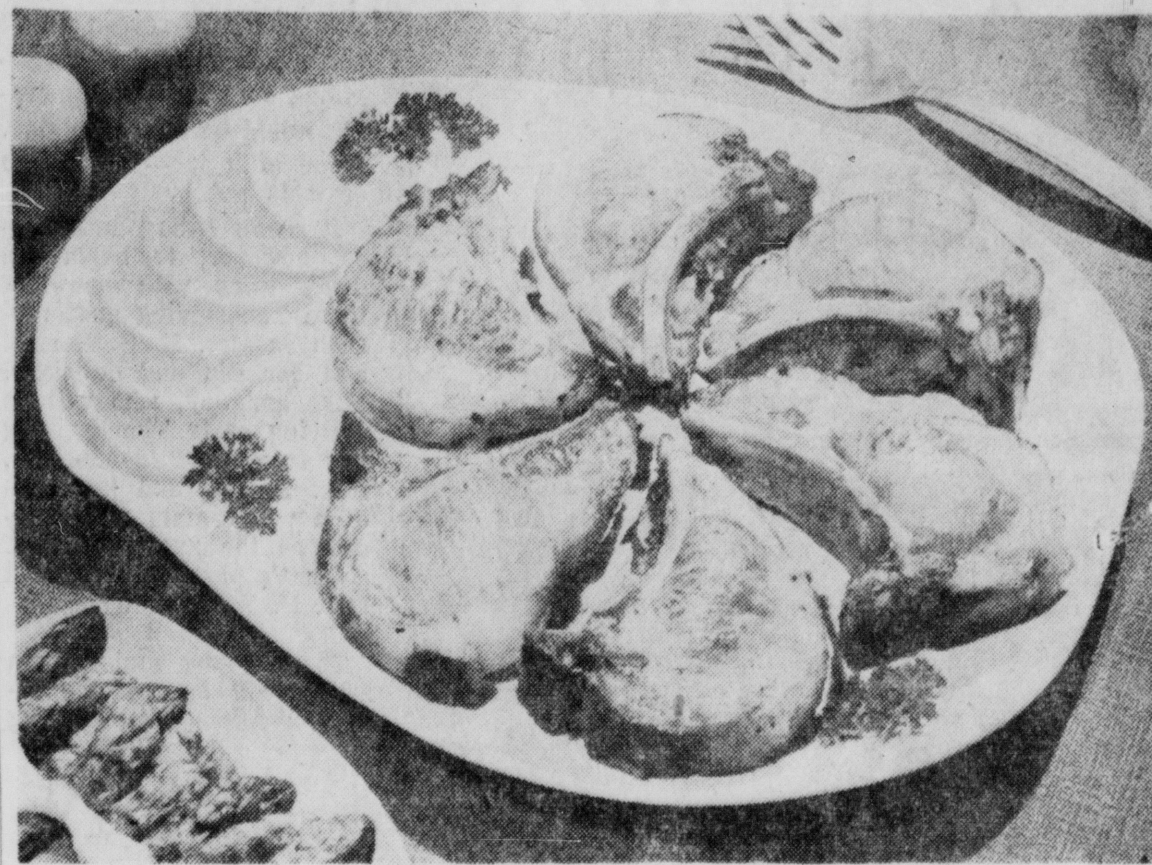

3/4 cup sherry wine
Vanilla custard
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Blanched slivered almonds
Place one layer in a deep, 9-inch, flat-bottom serving dish. (usually a cut glass bowl) Spread cake layer with red raspberry preserves. Cover with second layer. Pour sherry wine over cake layers. Spoon cooled custard over cake layers. Refrigerate over night or for at least several hours. Top with whipped cream and decorate with blanched slivered almonds.

Bitey Spread

Zip up the hamburger and wiener bun with this bitey spread. Whip together 1/2 cup butter, 1 teaspoon minced onion, a sprinkle of garlic salt, 2 teaspoons prepared mustard or 1 tablespoon grated horseradish.

A Winning Way With Chops

An ideal meat dish for the winter season is thick pork chops with a stuffing of bread crumbs, orange pieces, raisins and nutmeg. The chops cook slowly in a mixture of the orange juice and water. It's a satisfying main dish and an exciting way to perk up this popular meat cut.

For stuffed pork chops it's best to purchase rib chops at least 1 inch thick. Rib chops are those with all the meat on one side of the bone.

We suggest that it might be better to have your meat man pocket your chops, but if you are of the "do-it-yourself" school, we give you the directions for pocketing just below.

To make the pocket for the stuffing, cut into the rib side. Chops cut from this side hold the stuffing better. Make sure you do not cut all the way through to the fat edge. If a chop has two bones, cut between them. During cooking the opening will tend to close and keep the stuffing inside.

ORANGE-RAISIN STUFFED PORK CHOPS

6 rib pork chops, cut 1-inch thick
2 cups dry bread crumbs

1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup raisins
1 cup diced orange pulp
2 tablespoons lard or drippings

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup orange juice
1/4 cup water

Combine bread crumbs, nutmeg, raisins and orange pulp. Stuff each chop with the mixture. Brown chops in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add orange juice and water. Cover tightly and cook slowly 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done. 6 servings.

A FLAIR and a Flourish

It takes more than the turkey, the dressing, and the cranberry sauce to make a successful Thanksgiving feast (though we'll admit that's a good beginning), but a touch of whimsy in the table decorations will make the dinner truly memorable.

And what could be more appropriate than these crepe paper "Pumpkin People" to center the dinner table—inexpensive and easy to make.

Designed and created by Mrs. B. C. McLean, instructor for the Lincoln Public Schools Home and Family Life classes, the little Pilgrims call for crepe paper, cardboard and a bit of patience.

A cardboard circle, 8 inches in diameter, forms the base, and is "collared" by a strip of cardboard, gum-taped in place. The pumpkin body is a long strip of orange crepe paper gathered along both sides (use needle and thread) and taped to the base and to the top of the cardboard "collar". Stuff some cotton in the body to make it puff out.

The head can be made from a styrofoam ball, a ball of cotton, or of crushed paper, covered with flesh-colored crepe paper and fastened firmly to the end of a dowel stick, the other end of which is taped to the cardboard base.

A double ruffle of gray crepe paper topped by a white cardboard Pilgrim collar and pert, yellow ribbon bow completes the body. Crepe paper hair (her's braided) and hats (his smartly buckled) add the final touch. Their features can be made of felt, painted on, or, as in this case, cut from gummed colored paper (passe part out).

The "tassels" on the corn-cobs are, of course, crepe paper, shredded in long strips and wired to the ears.

No Wife's Influence Needed

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your stand that a bachelor's appearance is his own responsibility and a married man's appearance is the responsibility of his wife. Ill-fitting, unpressed clothes and unshined shoes are a reflection of the man who wears them. Only a slob looks like a slob. Please indicate in your column how many times a week you shine your husband's shoes, Abby, and I will send you a little gold medal.

DEAR NAVY: Seven, Mac. Now send the medal and I'll shine that, too!

DEAR ABBY: I can't go along with your opinion that it's the wife's fault if her husband looks like a slob. The only thing my husband

Abby, there can be 16 clean shirts in his drawer—all in perfect condition—and he will pick the one with the button missing, put it on and wear it, instead of looking for another one. The Talk Around Town Afternoon Wedding

It stands to reason that since tomorrow is Thanksgiving our news this morning would be of the holiday. Some of it is — and some of it is not.

It seems fitting and proper, however, to begin the day's work with news of more Thanksgiving guests — such as Mrs. R. E. Barrett and her son and daughter, Mike and Joy, who will be arriving early Thanksgiving day from Colorado Springs. Mrs. Barrett and her children will remain until Sunday as the guests of Mrs. Barrett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Herminghaus.

Three young maids from school will be arriving today for a long Thanksgiving weekend. The threesome, all students at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., includes Miss Patty Ager, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Ager; Miss Sandy Bodie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bodie, Jr.; and Miss Marie Carveth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carveth.

The non-Thanksgiving news begins with Mrs. Kenneth Hahn (Dee Marie Stuart) and her young daughter, Christine. You may not know that Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hahn are back from Germany, where Mr. Hahn had a tour of duty, and have resumed their residence in Scottsdale, Okla.

But to get on with the story — Mrs. Hahn and her daughter will arrive next Monday for a brief visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Stuart, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuart III. She plans to return to Scottsdale the following Saturday.

Mention of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Stuart brings us to their homecoming just a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart had an October date for their departure and a trip that took them first to Scottsdale for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Hahn. Then they went on to the west coast and as far north as Seattle, Wash., where they spent some time with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart and their family.

Have some news from abroad this morning — It involves Milan, Italy, Geneva, Switzerland — and a wedding.

The bridegroom, a former Lincoln resident and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Herminghaus, is John Frederick Herminghaus (Fritz) of Geneva, Switzerland, and his bride-elect is Miss Valerie Passadore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Passadore of Milan.

The wedding will take place on Dec. 1, in Milan. Following the ceremony there will be a reception at Giannino's, and in case you are interested, Giannino is located at Via A Seiesa.

Miss Marjorie Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Anderson, became the bride of Dale Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Anderson, all of Stromsburg, at a ceremony which took place on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18. The Rev. John H. Carlson read the lines of the 4 o'clock service at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Stromsburg.

Wearing Empire frocks of emerald green satin and carrying cascades of white and gold chrysanthemums were Mrs. James Karloff of Polk, as the matron of honor; Miss Katherine Anderson, Stromsburg, the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Anderson, Stromsburg, and Mrs. Wallace Larson, Hordville.

Wallace Larson of Hordville, served Mr. Anderson as best man, and seating the guests were Ronald Te-well, Stromsburg; Merlin Nyberg, Polk; Donald Knocke, Dan Timms and Merlin Erickson, Lincoln.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of white peau de soie. Petal appliques of pearl-embroidered, Alencon lace highlighted the portrait neckline of the basque, completed by long sleeves, and the lace trim was repeated on the belled skirt, which was draped into a modified pouf bustle at the back and extended into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held by a pearl crown, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with white orchids.

The couple will reside at 4300 Starr, in Lincoln. A former student at Luther Junior College, Wahoo, the bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Holmes School faculty. Mr. Anderson, a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma, Alpha Zeta and Gamma Sigma Delta honoraries, is studying for a graduate degree at the University of Nebraska.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

EASTMONT

Thanksgiving has also given Eastmont residents an excuse to be on the go. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Sommer and their family, Janelle, Robert and Mary, left yesterday for Stromsburg where they are visiting Mrs. Sommer's mother, Mrs. S. D. Evans.

The Sommers will be returning to Lincoln late Thanksgiving Day.

And Norfolk is the Thanksgiving Day destination of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hamilton who will be visiting Mr. Hamilton's parents, Dr. and Mrs. T. A. Hamilton. Accompanying mom and dad on their two-day visit with the grandparents will be Kim and Kent.

A long weekend in Dixon is scheduled for Mr. and Mrs. Buford Jones and their children, Karmyn and Bradley who also will leave Lincoln on Thanksgiving Day. They will be visiting Mrs. Jones' mother, Mrs. Esther Nelson.

A "thank you" coffee was given a week ago today in Eastmont. Mrs. Joseph Carlson, who was welcomed to the neighborhood at a coffee given by her neighbors earlier this month returned the courtesy with a morning get-together for a group of her Eastmont neighbors.

Attending the affair were Mrs. Jerry Wakefield, Mrs. Roy Ochsner, Mrs. Charles Pelikam, Mrs. Buford Jones, Mrs. Robert Garrett, Mrs. William Sommer, and Mrs. Robert Pegler.

FIENE HEIGHTS

While there are no particular Thanksgiving activities in Fiene Heights, there were some parties during the week.

On Saturday evening, Dr. and Mrs. George Reichenbach entertained at a bridge party at their home.

Many bridge beginners maintain that the card game is "harder than pulling teeth," and we might be able to get the full opinion on the subject if we asked Dr. and Mrs. Reichenbach and their guests—the bridge players were all dentists and their wives!

Mrs. Charles Lindgren was hostess last Friday to the members of the Nebraska Alpha Chapter of Delta Theta Chi sorority.

The chapter's guests included Mrs. Robert Colwell, Mrs. Glen McCown and Mrs. Lindgren's father, L. W. Splichal.

The program was given by Mr. Splichal who showed films taken on his recent trip behind the Iron Curtain when he visited in Czechoslovakia. Mr. Splichal also showed his collection of cut glass and laces, which he obtained on his trip.

At the Monday evening dinner-meeting of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club, held at the Capital Hotel, Mrs. Lavon Sumption presided as toastmistress, and in charge of the table topic talks on "Polygamy," was Mrs. Carl Dietrich.

Program speakers for the evening were Mrs. Lawrence Wentz, "Girl of My Dreams;" Miss Janice Hensel, "The Tetons;" and Mrs. Wallace Peterson, "No Greater Gift."

Mrs. Robert Meyerhoff presided at the meeting, and general evaluator was Mrs.

Josephine Eyen. Mrs. Don Kuhle evaluated the table talks.

The members of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, entertained at a couples costume party last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dormer. The evening hours were spent informally with games and dancing, and winning first place for the best costume was Richard Stephens.

Last Friday morning, the chapter members were entertained at a coffee at the home of Mrs. Jack Dodds, and presented a pink-and-blue shower to Mrs. Francis Rotter. Mrs. Jane Anderson was assisting hostess.

Strong Yet Safe—Gives Hours of Continuous Relief from Minor ARTHRITIS PAINS

Reduces swelling and inflammation so it's easier to move afflicted limbs again

No cure as yet has been found for arthritis. But medical research has established that the strong yet safe medication in Anacin® gives hours of relief from arthritis' minor pains—even such chronic pain arising from deep in joints. It has also been found Anacin has an anti-inflammatory action that helps reduce swelling and inflammation—a basic cause of arthritis suffering. In minutes—pain is relieved so it's easier to move around and this helps keep joints from "locking" or "stiffening."

Anacin Tablets are so effective because they contain strong yet safe medication. Remember, aspirin or buffered aspirin has only one pain reliever. But Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of three medically proven ingredients. And Anacin does not upset the stomach. Take as directed.

Plans Of Winter Brides-Elect

A popular December bride-to-be is Miss Gwen Herstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Herstein, who has chosen Saturday, Dec. 1, as the date for her marriage to Richard Lee Drake.

Honoring the bride-elect on Sunday were Kappa Delta sorority sisters who entertained at an afternoon party and bridal shower at the Legion Club.

On Friday evening, Nov. 9, feminine members of Miss Herstein's family entertained for her at a miscellaneous shower held at the Welfare Society Hall. The guest list also included feminine members of Mr. Drake's family.

Also honoring Miss Herstein recently was the shower for which members of her bridal party were hostesses at the First Federal party lounge. The group of hostesses included Miss Noni Spink, Miss Reda Catherell, Miss Loralie Reinmuth, Miss Kay Stuerz and Mrs. Thomas Dormer.

Miss Spink will attend the bride-elect as maid of honor for the wedding, which will take place at the Northeast Community Church. Bridesmaids for the 4 o'clock afternoon service will be Miss Catherell, Miss Reinmuth, Miss Stuerz and Mrs. Dormer, and attending her sister as junior bridesmaid will be Miss Julie Herstein.

Miss Lorie Jean Frohn will be the flower girl, and ring-bearer will be Randy Kehn.

Miss Beverly Baumgart and Jack Herstein will light the chancel candles.

Serving Mr. Drake as best man will be James A. Davis, and the corps of ushers will include Russell Miller, Loren Bruhke, Merwin Frohn, John Herstein, Jr., and Thomas Thompson.

Revealing plans this morning for a December wedding is Miss Elizabeth Jane Criley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Elmer Criley, whose betrothal to William A. Parrott, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Parrott, was announced recently.

The wedding will be an event of Sunday, Dec. 23, and the service will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of members of the immediate families.

Miss Phyllis Elliott will attend Miss Criley as maid of honor, and serving, Mr. Parrott as best man will be his brother, Jerry Parrott.

The approaching marriage of Nancy Story Plummer of Lincoln, to Mitchell Mackie Mann of Milwaukee, will be an event of Saturday, Nov. 24.

The daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Story, the bride-elect has chosen as her matron of honor and only attendant her sister-in-law, Mrs. Raymond E. Story, Jr., of Omaha.

John E. Mann, Jr., will serve his brother as best man for the 4:30 o'clock service, which will be solemnized at the Immanuel Presbyterian Church in Milwaukee.

The bride-to-be and members of her family will be honored on Wednesday evening in Milwaukee at a dinner for 35 guests, for which Mr. Mann's mother, Mrs. Isabel Mann McIlhenny of Canton, N.C., will be hostess.

And on Friday evening, the bride-elect and her fiancé will share honors at a pre-nuptial dinner at the Milwaukee University Club. The guest list will include members of the families.

Announcing plans for her approaching wedding is Miss Alice Cluck of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Cluck of Schuyler, who has chosen Friday, Dec. 21, as the date for her marriage to Ron D. Bevans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bevans of Lincoln.

The service will be solemnized in the presence of only the members of the family, in the chapel of St. Paul Methodist Church.

Maid of honor and her sister's only attendant for the evening ceremony will be Miss Judy Cluck of Schuyler, and serving Mr. Bevans as best man will be Gary Palmer.

The bride-elect was the guest of honor on Sunday evening when Miss Barbara Peterson and Miss Karen Parks were co-hostesses at a dessert supper at Holiday Inn. Later in the evening, a miscellaneous shower was presented to the honoree.

Making plans for a wedding during the Christmas holidays is Miss Phyllis Ann Burnett, who has chosen Sunday, Dec. 23, for her marriage to Richard D. Maca, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Maca of Wilber.

The bride-to-be, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Burnett, has announced that the ceremony will be solemnized at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Second Presbyterian Church.

For her matron of honor, Miss Burnett has named Mrs. Rodney Nickerson of McCook, and her bridesmaid will be Miss Virginia Spinar.

Steven Shaw will serve Mr. Maca as best man.

November Ceremony

The wedding of Miss Karen Louise Wrenholt of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wrenholt of Clearwater, and ALC Frederick Rodgers Temple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Temple of Ashtabula, Ohio, took place Sunday evening, Nov. 11, at the Clearwater Methodist Church. The 7 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Lester Spragg of Ewing, and the wedding music was played by Ray Colby, Norfolk, pianist. The vocal soloist was Miss Loretta Shrader of Norfolk.

Wearing alike frocks of lavender taffeta and carrying nosegays of tinted carnations were Miss Romaine Hoffman of Lincoln, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Elma Lou Jackson, Lincoln.

Thomas Wrenholt, Clearwater, brother of the bride, served as best man, and seating the guests were James Wrenholt, Clearwater, also a brother of the bride; Duane Hoffman and Roger Burke, Lincoln.

The bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was highlighted by a sabrina neckline, traced with pearls and iridescent sequins, and the bouffant skirt of tulle was draped at the hemline to reveal a deep flounce of the lace. A crown of jeweled lace held her illusion veil and she carried white orchids showered with stephanotis.

The couple will reside at 1300 B. in Lincoln, where the bridegroom is stationed at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

Bride At Candlelight Service

At a candlelight ceremony solemnized on Saturday evening, Oct. 20, Miss Rebecca Irene Kunc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Kunc of Wilber, became the bride of Robert Gene Brinkman, son of Mrs. Alfred Lisec of Swanton, and of Robert W. Brinkman of Wilber. The lines of the service were read at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Cecil B. Green, at Grace Methodist Church in Crete. Miss Rosemary Machacek, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Miss Lois Chab.

Miss Jeanette Broz of Lincoln, as the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Ellen Karpisek of Swanton, wore frocks of aqua chiffon fashioned with fitted, embroidered bodices and bouffant skirts. They carried white carnations.

Serving as best man was Richard Kunc of Wilber, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Calvin Anthony, Dave Kalkwark and Marlen Hayek, all of Wilber.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of traditional white satin. Appliques of Alencon lace framed the shoulder-wide neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and beneath the slim waist, the skirt was caught into fullness and extended into a chapel train. A jeweled crown held her veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Brinkman are residing in Wilber.

Opening lead — jack of spades.

One of the most common problems faced by declarer is whether or not to finesse when he is missing Q-x-x-x in a suit. The problem is even more complicated when the finesse can be taken in either direction.

Suppose declarer has A-K-J-10-9 of a suit facing x-x-x-x in dummy. The best line of play, barring contrary indications, is to cash the A-K and hope to catch the queen. Declarer does better in the long run, playing this way, than he does by finessing for the queen.

However, this is a close mathematical proposition, and when there are good reasons in a given hand for declarer to finesse instead of playing for the drop, he should feel free to do so.

Look at this hand, for example, where declarer should finesse. Let's say West leads a spade and East takes the ace and returns a spade, won with the king.

Having already lost a trick, declarer sees that if everything were to go wrong he might also lose two clubs and a heart and go down one. He therefore begins to consider ways and means of avoiding the loss of one of these tricks.

He realizes that if he cashes the A-K of hearts and it turns out that West has the guarded queen and East the ace of clubs, he is down. West would shift to a club as soon as he got his trump trick, and that would mean curtains.

To guard against the possibility, South leads the ace of hearts at trick three. When everybody follows, the contract becomes certain. He then leads another heart. If West plays low, South finesesses the eight, confident that if it loses to the queen, East can make no return that will stop the contract. Only one club trick can be lost in such case, since dummy's diamonds can be run.

If West shows out on the second trump lead, the contract is equally certain. Dummy wins with the king and returns a heart, placing East in the same untenable position.

Why Grow Old?

Discipline Is Good

Josephine Lowman

"Discipline is one of the main ingredients for success in anything you undertake," says movie, stage and TV actress Celeste Holm. "Discipline is the ability to be on time, to sacrifice things you might want to do for things you have to do, to say, 'I'm going to do it today—not tomorrow or next week, but today!'"

We have all read about some of the prima donnas of the movies and the theater and may have gained the impression that actors and actresses are very flighty folks, irresponsible and temperamental. However, Miss Holm says that this is not so, "except for a few to whom acting is merely a way to make money and build up their ego. The true actor is a serious craftsman who has consideration for his fellow workers and a love and respect for the work he is doing."

Celeste Holm continues, "I think this applies to most peoples' work. A certain amount of discipline is needed to get the job done. Most businesses would fire an antagonistic worker but the entertainment field seems to coddle them. The real stars, however, the real top actors and actresses of the theater and movies are usually a joy to work with."

Miss Holm remarks that anyone who is out to become a top star should be made aware that the higher you go the harder it gets, not easier! With the compensations of admiration and acclaim also come tremendous responsibility for the success of a play, the choosing of the correct play, the narrowing down of roles to only the important ones and the increased difficulty of having a private life.

All of this applies to everyone and to every endeavor. One must pay the price for success, no matter whether it is a beauty or health routine, a career or a marriage. Self-discipline must be a part of the picture if you are going to win!

CD Teaches Medical Aid

The Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce has sponsored a seven-week course in medical self-help, instructed by personnel of the Lancaster County Civil Defense.

Twelve "graduates" completed the initial course and received their "diplomas" on Monday evening, but arrangements may be made for the second series of classes by contacting the Civil Defense office.

Designed to instruct a person in medical self-help in case of atomic attack or other emergency, the student learns to handle medical emergencies for as long as two weeks, and upon completing the course, is capable of instructing others.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

Today's Postcard is written by Stanton Delaplaine's secretary, Novella O'Hara. Mr. Delaplaine is in South America. His regular column will resume tomorrow.

South America seems to have lost a little something. My boss. And the copy for today's "Postcard." South American mail is as reliable as my dates, usually a day late.

This makes everyone at the paper very nervous. I was all set to join in the group panic. Then I realized—this is my CHANCE!

Subject matter is not the only problem. How to write it is another. The Chief doesn't use any different words. But he has a talent for putting the old ones together in a very happy way. I don't.

But a writer never let a lack of talent stop him. Or me. Onward!

I have always wanted to write about my Aunt Nora. The only woman bellhop in the city of Omaha. And how she only drinks cinder-side in respect to the memory of Uncle Joe—who was a conductor on the City of Denver for 30 years.

But my cousins might get sore at me. They have cash now. And tone. I would be pulled from the Christmas list.

I could write about my job. Part of which is having lunch with public-relations men. Jack Waln, Kevin Keating and Ernie Beyl are teaching me a whole new language. It's pretty funny. But maybe only to me. They seem so serious.

I love the way they talk. I don't understand it. But I like it. If it's in code, their secrets are safe with me. To the tomb.

Having lunch with these fellows is a real project. Lots of phone calls. And everyone is always on the way to the airport. In a $45 hat and an expensive trench coat.

You hear a lot of image-wise, corporate postures, inner dynamics, parent company, foundation of growth, inflationary pressures, fluid assets, conciliatory search, projected projects, deadlines and more initials than vegetable soup. (I love AOT—Any Old Time. And ASAP—As Soon As Possible.)

When I have lunch with this crowd, I try to order something that requires a lot of chewing. So I can't be expected to answer. I do a lot of attentive nodding these days.

A Los Angeles restaurant, P. J.'s, might make a good column. It's sort of a late-late supermarket for people. A dark Disneyland. I would like to have the house count on alpacas, contact lenses, plastic noses, spray net (liquid weight) and capped teeth.

The clientele is the most I've-Already-Heard-It Group going.

There is no such thing as the inside track here. No firsts. You leave yourself wide open for Topmanship when you get into conversation. Someone will out-something you. Always. Makes me wish they would give written tests.

Vic Tanny's muscle shop is writable. I could use this space to stuff their suggestion box.

They ought to have a Pay-As-It-Goes plan here. Let's change the name to Trainer Vic's. Sounds more exotic. And would they mind not building me UP. I have done that on my own. I go there to break it down. At the rate I am going, I will be booked for supermarket openings.

This is fun. But I have been thinking. I am here all alone. My boss' mail is lost in the South American jungles. (The carrier has a curare dart in his collar.) And the publisher might just walk in and catch me.

I have the green eyeshade on. Just like the news guys on TV. Sleeve garters. Printer's ink smudged on my face. And I have a lot of clean white paper. Somehow it looked better that way.

It might be better if I sort of went back to work. And looked for more mail. Tomorrow we'll be back. In South America.

Citizens Urged To Drive Safely

Colonel C. J. Sanders today appealed to citizens throughout the state to give priority consideration to the principles of safe driving during the holiday season as he referred to the mounting traffic toll headed for a new all-time high in Nebraska for 1962.

"As we all reflect on our blessings this Thanksgiving season," Sanders said, "let us give particular attention to the value of family unity and family security and how often these are threatened or lost because of traffic accidents. And, recognizing the fact that most such accidents involve illegal, thoughtless or discourteous conduct by one or more drivers, may we also realize that only the strictest compliance with traffic regulations and the most careful consideration for the welfare of others will assure a happy holiday season free from accident experience."

School Principals Conference Slated

Elementary school principals and educators from Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Wyoming and Nebraska will hold their regional conference at the Nebraska Center Sunday through Tuesday.

The conference, "Preparation for the Principalship," is sponsored jointly by the University of Nebraska and the Nebraska Education Association.

Harold J. McNally, professor of education at Columbia University, will speak at the 6:45 p.m. dinner meeting Sunday.

Other speakers are: Dr. Frank Sorenson, director of Summer Sessions at the University of Nebraska, 1:45 p.m., Monday; and Dr. Walter Beggs, dean of Teachers College, University of Nebraska, 6:30 p.m., Monday.

Tuesday's main address will be given by Dr. O. W. Kopp, chairman of the department of elementary education, University of Nebraska, at 9 a.m.

RHO CHI ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

University of Nebraska chapter of Rho Chi, national pharmaceutical honor society, has elected William H. Webster of Hastings as president. Other officers are: Thomas Cunningham, Monroe, Wis., vice president; and Louis D. Allison, Wakefield, secretary-treasurer. Miss Phyllis Platz, resident pharmacist and instructor in pharmacy, is historian, and Dr. LaVerne D. Small, professor of pharmacy, is advisor.

Members in this honorary are students in pharmacy who have at least a 6.5 cumulative grade average and have completed at least three-fourths of their hours in the College of Pharmacy. The society encourages and recognizes high scholarship and research in pharmacy.

Holiday Menu At State Institutions

Turkey and the trimmings will be on the menu at all state institutions in Nebraska Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, the State Department of Public Institutions announced Tuesday.

To feed the total institution population of 7,700, the grocery list includes 10,823 pounds of turkey, 102 bushel baskets of apples, 2,112 pounds of cranberries, 2,304 grapefruit and 8,800 oranges.

The department said religious services will also play an important part in the Thanksgiving Day activities at the institutions. There will also be movies, television, sports activities and parties at the various institutions.

Brazil Originally Called Vera Cruz

Brasilia—Brazil was discovered April 22, 1500, by Pedro Alvares Cabral, a Portuguese navigator on his way to India. He claimed the territory for King Manuel of Portugal and named it Vera Cruz (True Cross).

The name was changed later to Brasil (Brazil) after the red-dye wood, pau-brasil, now called brazilwood, which the early Portuguese settlers exported.

Housing Order Poked In South

By United Press International
Negro and Northern spokesmen said President Kennedy's order Tuesday barring racial discrimination in federal housing could lead to a "truly integrated society." But a Southern senator called it an "audacious usurpation of power."

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and longtime integration leader, said: "It is not only constitutionally sound but it is also morally right." "The order strikes at the very heart of the segregated system," the Rev. Mr. King said. "Where a family lives precludes the schools, parks and churches its members will attend. Integrated housing is the primary means by which we will have a truly integrated society."

Audacious
Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., said he would do "all within my power" to secure a rescission of the order, which he called "an audacious usurpation of power by the executive branch." "The executive seeks to invade the sacred province of the home and destroy the right of every American to choose his own associates," Stennis said.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said the order would curtail housing construction "by anywhere from 25 to 50%."

Political
Robertson said it was a political move aimed at winning support of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

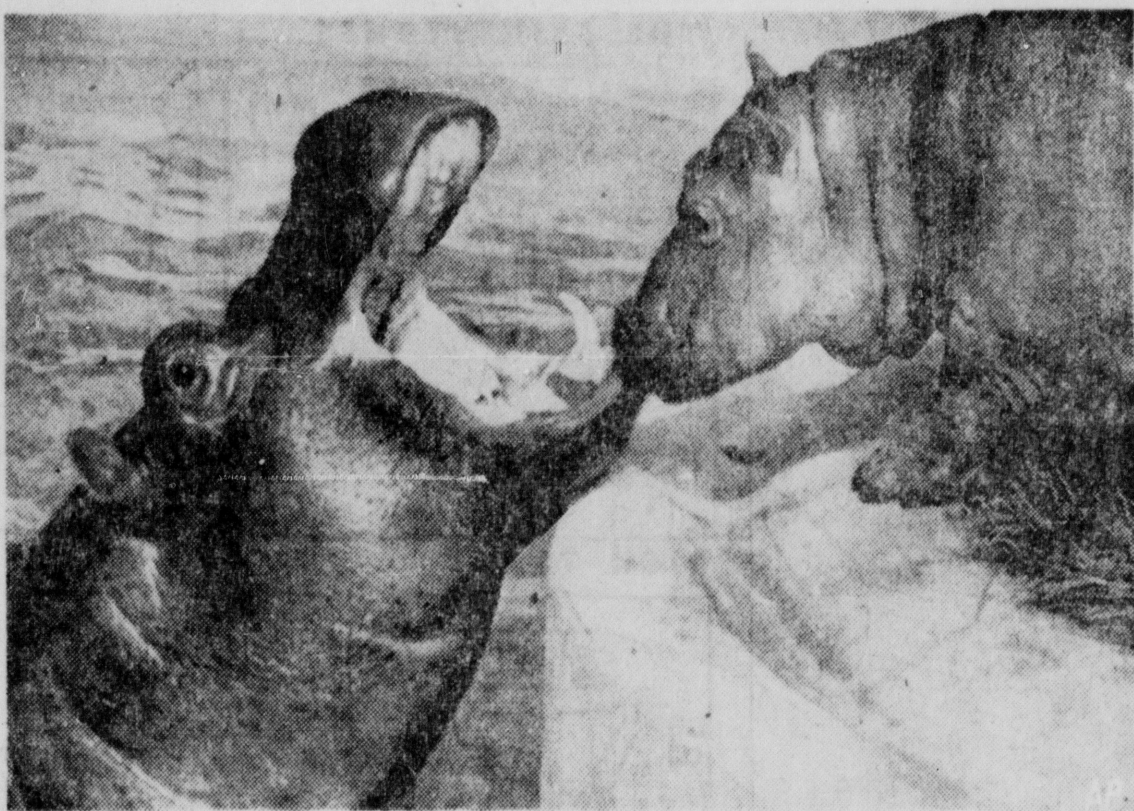

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a member of the banking committee who had been prodding Kennedy to sign the order he campaigned for more than two years ago, said it should have come "long ago."

"But nevertheless I support it now," Javits said. "It is most welcome and gratifying."

Right Way
In Chicago, Edward A. Marciniak, executive director of Mayor Richard J. Daley's Human Relations Committee, said the order was "a move in the right direction" toward establishing a single housing market in metropolitan areas.

"Many of the abuses we have had in which both whites and non-whites have been exploited have resulted from existence of a dual housing market," Marciniak said.

The president of the Atlanta Federal Savings and Loan Association, W. O. Duvall, said the order would slow down housing in Georgia.

Germany's Crisis Hits New Peak

Bonn, Germany (U.P.) — The government crisis over the "Der Spiegel" affair surged to a new high Tuesday night. The Christian Democrats declared the coalition dissolved and empowered Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to form a new cabinet.

The 86-year-old chancellor's position was not immediately threatened, however. Constitutionally, he can only lose his job if parliament proposes a new chancellor and elects him with a majority. Parliament does not meet until Dec. 5.

All 15 Christian Democratic cabinet members offered to resign at once to give Adenauer a free hand in forming a new cabinet, a party statement said.

The Christian Democrats made the decision at an emergency session prompted by the resignation of the 5 Free Democratic Party cabinet members Monday.

The Free Democrats took this step to pressure Adenauer into removing Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss. They hold him responsible for the arrest of staff members of Der Spiegel, a news magazine critical of his policies. However, the Free Democrats emphasized they wanted to keep the coalition intact.

The Christian Democrats accused the smaller party of conducting propaganda in an effort to enhance their chances in next Sunday's Bavarian provincial election, where Strauss is strong politically.

The Free Democrats, whom Adenauer needed to stay in power after his party lost the parliamentary majority last fall, were blamed by the Christian Democrats for the present government crisis.

At a political rally in the Bavarian town of Weilheim Strauss said "no one is irreplaceable — not even a minister."

Bill Would Liberalize Filling Solon Vacancy

Sen. Don Thompson of McCook said Tuesday he will introduce a bill in the 1963 Legislature to provide that the governor must appoint a senator to fill a vacancy in the Legislature whenever it occurs—whether the lawmaking body is in session or not.

Under present law, the governor fills such a vacancy only when the Legislature convenes or is in session.

Thompson noted that two legislative districts in the state, the 5th in Omaha, and the 25th—Clay, Hamilton and Polk Counties, have been without representation for a considerable time since the 1961 Legislature adjourned.

Hans Jensen of Aurora resigned as 25th District senator shortly after the last session adjourned in July 1961. The 5th District seat has been vacant since Sen. John Adams died in April.

Residents of these districts have had no representation on Legislative Council committees since these vacancies occurred, Thompson noted, therefore no voice in decisions made for recommended legislation for the 1963 session.

"It also means," he pointed out, "that citizens of these districts would be disenfranchised from participating in a call of the Legislature by lawmakers themselves.

"I think we should take steps to prevent the possibility of such a recurrence," the McCook senator said, "and I shall introduce a bill to amend the present law for that purpose."

Here's your chance to meet an electric little boy named Poppo—a product of Brooklyn's slums—who had a mind of his own, an eye for beauty, and a definite plan for getting a new set of parents! The way in which this plan reshaped the lives of at least three people makes an immensely appealing true story.

It's condensed from the $3.75 book "Poppo" and you'll find it in December Reader's Digest now on sale.

$134,000 Bid On Calvert Addition

Apparent low bids for the Calvert Elementary School addition totaled $133,975, a Lincoln Board of Education spokesman said Tuesday.

The school addition, being financed out of the $12 million school bond issue, includes 4 classrooms, auditorium and kitchen.

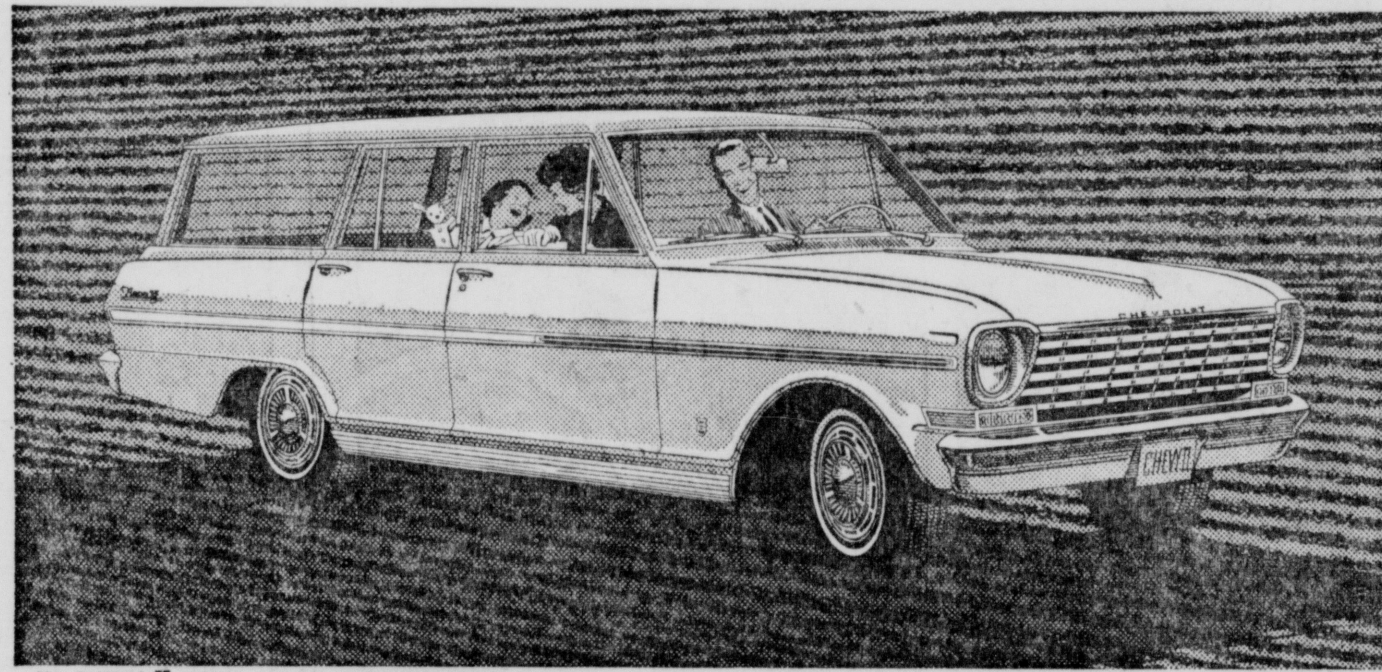

The apparent low bidders were general contract, Olson Construction Co., $112,708; mechanical, Reinhardt Brothers, $19,291, and electrical, Mason Electric Co., $11,976.

An architect's recommendation on the bids is expected to be made next Tuesday to the school board.

Here Now, Dan

Dan Devine didn't do himself any great service by issuing a blast — via TV, wouldn't you know — at Oklahoma for "dirty play" during the Sooners' fine 13-0 win over Missouri.

It's about time these coaches learn they can't say anything that comes to mind on radio or TV without getting a black eye.

More times than I care to count a coach has spouted a sour grape or two in a press conference, but managed to cool off before the reporter got it written down — thus, a chance to rephrase his remark. The coach doesn't get a second chance on his air show — once it's said, it's gone.

Jack Mitchell created a storm in Kansas with his post-game comments — ravings might be more appropriate — after the Nebraska rout. Now Devine apparently spoke from the heart and sounded like a poor loser.

It's interesting to note that Dan thought better of the situation after his statements about OU hit print. He had to issue a later statement saying his remarks were "mis-constructed," and place a phone call to Bud Wilkinson to "explain his viewpoint."

While I witnessed the Oklahoma-Missouri contest last week, I have no way of knowing whether or not Sooner end John Flynn deliberately threw an elbow at Tiger John Roland.

But the key issue, it seems to me, is that the officials nabbed him, kicked him out of the game and penalized Oklahoma. Certainly, if it was deliberate it should not be condoned. Flynn conceded after the game that he should have been booted and I imagine Wilkinson had a few words for the over-zealous end, who might have been needed the second half.

However, Flynn's swing at Roland had no bearing on the outcome of the game. Oklahoma throttled Missouri with solid, legal blocks and tackles — not by playing dirty football all afternoon.

Missouri Suspect

As long as Devine wants to raise the point of questionable gridiron tactics, it can be said that the Tigers are on shaky ground with their "sucker shift."

They employed it against Nebraska — once successfully, once for a dead heat — and pulled it once against Oklahoma, but the Sooners didn't bite.

If it were part of Missouri's offense — used many times during the season, that is — the shift would be legal. But when it's pulled only 2 or 3 times a year in crucial spots, well — it smacks of rule-dodging trickery.

Here 'N There

Quoting Wilkinson on the letter of intent: "I'm against it, but it will come. My objection is that even with a letter of intent, a young boy will be subjected to intense pressure. And it won't end the pressure on the blue-chip prospect. He'll still like to fly all over the country — and won't make up his mind for a long time . . ." Wilkinson also denies that Oklahoma sneaks into Texas and steals Southwest Conference letter signers at the last minute: "We'll sign a boy early, but the Southwest is bound and 8 schools pressure him constantly . . . So he finally signs with one to get 7 off his back . . . Then when he comes to Oklahoma, where he originally intended to come all along, we're charged with stealing him in August . . ."

Quoting ex-Sooner and NFL star Jim Weatherall, while sampling his hot biscuits, gravy, steak and chicken at his home-style restaurant in Norman: "Oklahoma's line this year probably isn't as great as some of the ones in the 50s, but it has the potential to be as great. When I broke in, there were fellows like Wade Walker and Stan West who had played service ball and were older. They had a lot of experience before college. These present linemen can't benefit from that kind of experience as sophomores but they have the potential to be equally as good when they gain the experience . . ."

Lawrence F. Rudean of Ceresco wants a debate settled — whether Yogi Berra has hit 3 homers in a World Series game, or if Babe Ruth is the only player to turn this trick. Answer: Ruth did it twice, both against St. Louis, in 1926 and 1928. Berra hasn't hit 3 in a single game.

Fremont To Omaha In Class A District Shift

By CONDE SARGENT

Fremont will make its state high school basketball bid in Omaha.

The Fremonters have been placed in an Omaha district by the Nebraska Schools Activities Association as the 32-team Class A field witnessed considerable juggling.

Lexington's boost to Class A prompted the district switches with Fremont replacing Omaha Cathedral in the 3-district Omaha setup. Cathedral dropped to Class B.

Just two Class A districts remained intact from a year ago—Lincoln (Lincoln High, Northeast, Southeast, and be held at Pershing Auditorium.

Districts for other classes also were set by the NSAA. As usual, there are 8 Class B districts, 16 Class C and 32 Class D.

Class B district winners qualify for the state meet with 8 two-team Class C playoffs and 8 four-team D playoffs deciding the 8 finalists in the small school classes.

Class C and D district tournaments will begin Feb. 25 and the upper two Classes on March 4.

The state tourney will be March 14-15-16 in Lincoln.

Sites of each district tourney and pairings will be determined at later meetings of district members.

AP Top Spot To So. Cal.

By Associated Press

Southern California, a sure thing to play in the Rose Bowl if it beats UCLA Saturday, is the latest college football power to handle the hot potato of No. 1 rating.

In the 9 weeks of this year's Associated Press poll of a committee of sports writers and sportscasters, there have been 5 different leaders—Alabama (3), Texas (2), Northwestern (2), Ohio State (1) and now Southern California.

Northwestern's reign ran from Oct. 30 through Nov. 6. After they were knocked off by Wisconsin, Alabama took over. When Alabama was upset by Georgia Tech, 7-6, Saturday, the door was wide open for Southern California.

Willie Ross Confined To Student Health With Flu

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's preparations for the crucial 1962 windup with Oklahoma suffered a setback Tuesday.

Left halfback Willie Ross, the club's leading ground gainer with 430 yards and a 4.9 average, was confined to Student Health with a bad cold and flu.

"We hope to have Willie back for practice Wednesday, but we don't know," Coach Bob Devaney said Tuesday as the Huskers commenced installing defenses for the post-Sooners.

Fortunately, the Cornhuskers' battle plans were not completely disrupted, thanks to the presence of Warren Powers, the Kansas City senior who has worked at left half and fullback all season.

Powers, who has netted 269 yards and has a 5.7 average, moved into Ross' spot Tuesday and will be groomed for full duty in case Willie is sidelined. Also on hand is Dave Theisen, the alternate left half who has logged considerable time on defense.

Devaney pointed out that Oklahoma's well-rounded offense is presenting Nebraska with a heavy schedule this week.

"We can't concentrate on their running game because Oklahoma quarterback Monte Deere has completed two-thirds of his passes," Bob said. "Their running attack with fullback Jim Grisham keeps you honest inside, while halfback Joe Don Looney is tough outside."

The Husker coach said Nebraska's defensive corner men — fullbacks and left halfbacks — will have a heavy burden against Oklahoma.

"They have halfbacks who can throw the running pass, in addition to sweep power and good, big ends," Devaney said.

—LEAHY WOULD COACH—

Titan Owner Discloses Offer By Leahy Group

New York (AP) — Owner Harry Wismer of the New York Titans said Tuesday a group headed by former Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy has "made me a good offer" for the financially-distressed American Football League club.

Wismer said if the Leahy group is successful in buying the Titans Leahy would coach the team and be general manager. Leahy retired from coaching when he left Notre Dame Jan. 31, 1954.

Wismer said the Leahy group is one of 4 who have made offers for the Titans. "Leahy's got the team," Wismer said, "unless one of the other groups makes me a better offer. I will step out of the ownership and retain 25 per cent of the stock as a minority stockholder."

Leahy was not available for comment. He left New York immediately after a final conference with Wismer for Shreveport, La., where he was to speak Tuesday night at a Touchdown Club dinner.

—POWERS MOVES TO LEFT HALF—

Bob praised Oklahoma's defensive backs — especially Paul Lea and Charlie Mayhew — for being "real good tacklers, quick hitters and good on pass defense."

"With the possible exception of Colorado, Oklahoma will have a line closest to our size," Devaney added. "But Oklahoma's line, in addition to being big, has a lot more agility than Colorado. They have the same type line as Missouri, only bigger and quicker."

Two Top Coaches

The Oklahoma-Nebraska game will match two of the top 3 coaches in the country when it comes to winning percentage.

Sooner boss Bud Wilkinson is the national leader with an .833 mark, compiled via 135 wins, 26 losses and 4 ties. Nebraska's Bob Devaney ranks 3rd with a .771 average, based on a 43-11-5 record.

And No. 2? He's a Big 8 coach, too — Missouri's Dan Devine who has a 63-15-4 record for .792.

Schedule Change

The Thanksgiving holiday has prompted Devaney to alter Nebraska's practice schedule this week. Wednesday the Huskers will drill at 2 p.m., and the Thursday session is slated for 8:30 a.m.

Nebraska's air charter will leave Lincoln at 11:45 a.m., Friday and a workout at Owen Field in Norman is on tap. The Huskers will headquarter at the Sheraton Hotel in Oklahoma City Friday and Saturday night, returning to Lincoln Sunday.

No Record

A statistical mixup has left NU quarterback Dennis Claridge 7 yards short of the school passing record of 706 yards, set by Fran Nagle in 1950.

Boston (AP)—Mickey Mantle, the Yankees' gimpy-legged slugging master, was named the American League's most valuable player for the 3rd time in his career Tuesday.

The 31-year-old New York center fielder beat out Bobby Richardson, 234 votes to 152, in polling by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins placed 3rd with 99 votes. Leon Wagner of Los Angeles was 4th with 85 votes, and Cleveland pitcher Dick Donovan received 64 votes for 5th place.

'56, '57 Winner

Mantle, feared at the end of his playing career last spring when he injured his left leg and knee, also won the league's highest honor in 1956 and 1957.

He had been nosed out by Roger Maris of the Yankees in 1960 and 1961—by a slim 4-vote margin a year ago.

Maris, whose performance dropped off last season from his record home run year of 1961, though he still hit 33 homers and compiled 100 runs batted in, did not poll a single vote this year.

Mantle belted 30 home runs, had 89 RBI and, with a .321 average, was runner-up in the American League batting race to Boston's champion, Pete Runnels.

Hobbled

Hobbled much of the time from his legs and then by a rib injury, Mickey missed 39 games but still was in action enough, offensively and defensively, to pace the Yankees to their 13th pennant in the last 16 years.

New York has won the flag 10 times during Mantle's 12 years with the world champions.

Mantle, joining a select group of previous 3-time MVP winners in the league, received 13 of the first place votes cast. Richardson got 5 and Killebrew and Tom Tresh, the Yanks' star-rookie shortstop-outfielder, each received one.

Every Ballot

Thus, New York players garnered all but one of the top votes. Mantle was the only player named on every ballot.

Other 3-time AL recipients were Jimmy Foxx, Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra.

It was the 7th time in 9 years a Yankee player walked off with the honors. Berra won in 1954 and 1955 after originally capturing the award in 1951, the year Mantle broke in as a 19-year-old kid from Oklahoma.

Mantle appeared in 123 games, scored 96 runs, had 121 hits and led the American League in slugging with a .605 mark.

Richardson topped the loop in at-bats with 692 and base hits with 209. The clever second baseman drove in 59 runs and ended the year with a .302 figure, 9th best in the league.

Killebrew, the Twins' broad-shouldered first sacker, led the league in both home runs (48) and runs batted in (126) though he hit for only .243.

The rest of the top 10 finishers were Al Kaline of Detroit 58 votes, Norm Siebern of Kansas City 53, Rich Rollins of Minnesota 47, Brooks Robinson of Baltimore 41 and Floyd Robinson of Chicago 33.

'I'M GLAD'

Tulsa, Okla. (UPI)—Mickey Mantle, the winner of the American League Most Valuable Player award, shook his head in disbelief Tuesday when he heard the news.

Then his face broke out in a big grin.

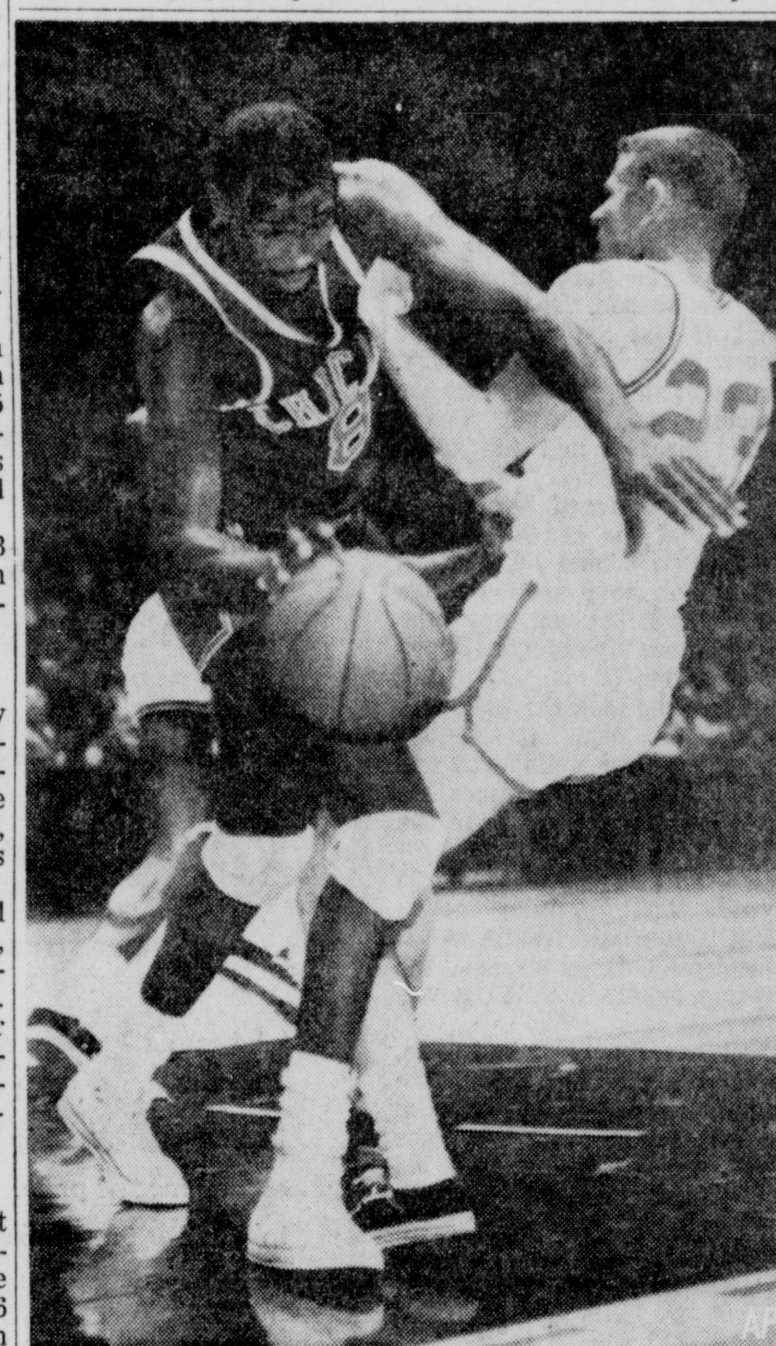

"I'm sure glad to hear it," he said. "It's what you work for all year."

A reporter told the New York Yankee star about the award just as he finished a round of golf at Southern Hills Country Club in Tulsa.

Mantle, now a 3-time winner of the award, said he was sorry teammate Bobby Richardson did not win it. Richardson was second in the balloting.

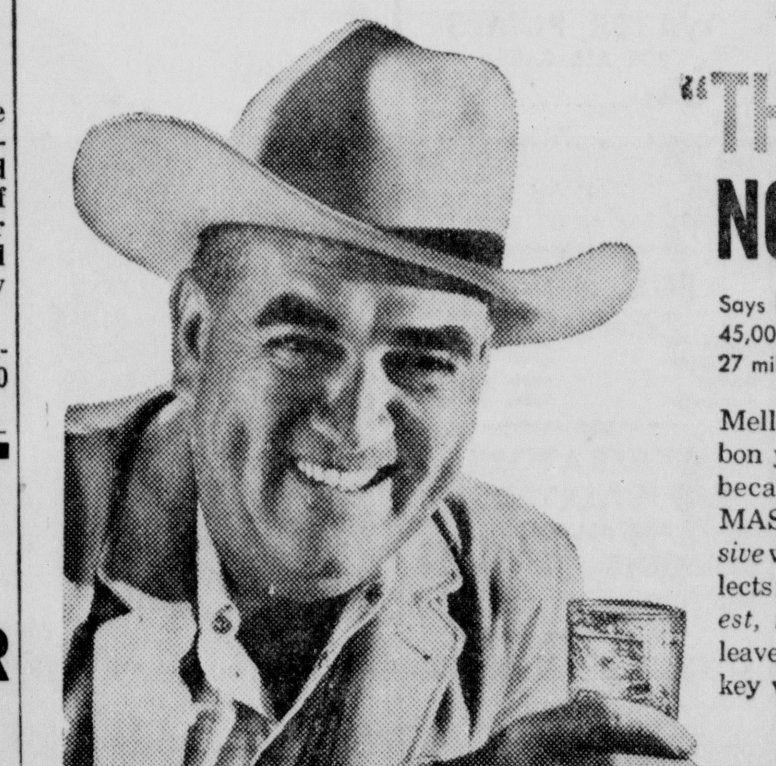

two completions for 46 yards in the North Carolina State game, but they came on pass interference and should have been charged to penalty yardage.

Joining Claridge in the stat-shrinking is end Jim Hoge who was the intended receiver on the two plays in question.

CAGE COMBAT

Walt Bellamy, 6-10 Chicago center, steals the ball from Boston's Frank Ramsey in a Tuesday night NBA basketball battle. The Celtics defeated the Zephyrs, 113-106, in the first game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader. St. Louis fell before the New York Knickerbockers, 103-95, in the second contest.

Oklahoma Is Second In Dunkel

By DICK DUNKEL

Wisconsin and Oklahoma backed into the college football rating lead as erstwhile leader Alabama fell by the wayside last Saturday, according to the Dunkel Index.

Wisconsin (7-1) beat Illinois, 35-6, to bring its average scoring superiority to net 24.0 points per game. This has been accomplished against opposition indexed at 87.6 for a total rating of 111.6, now the nation's highest.

Oklahoma (6-2), after taking the measure of Missouri, 13-0, has been 20.4 over 89.6 for the second place total of 110.0.

Three Cage Lettermen Return At Fairbury JC

Fairbury — Fairbury Junior College will open its 1962-63 basketball season Dec. 1 at Highland, Kan., with only 3 lettermen returning from last year's squad.

Returning lettermen are Bob Higel of Geneva, Richard Thurin of Ong and Gary Sparks of Wallace. Coach C. L. Grovert's quintet has no non-conference opposition on this year's schedule playing a home-and-home series with 10 foes — all members of either the Nebraska 4-JC Conference or of interstate loops.

Tigers Fly Back Home

Tokyo (AP) —The Detroit Tigers flew home Tuesday in two groups after playing an extra game on their goodwill baseball tour for the benefit of the 1964 Tokyo Olympics. They won it, beating the Japanese All-Stars 7-2 before 19,000.

Soviet Labor Turnover Loss $2 Billion A Year

By PRESTON GROVER

Moscow (AP)—The chairman of the Soviet State Labor Committee told Communist Party leaders Tuesday labor turnover "remains big in industry" and is costing 2 billion rubles—more than $2 billion—a year.

The labor committee chief, Alexander Volkov, reported to the Central Committee on the labor turnover cost. Premier Khrushchev said earlier it was big enough to justify some restrictive legislation.

The labor turnover was one of a number of problems facing the Central Committee in the second day of its current session. The meeting was called to speed up Soviet industrial and agricultural production.

Most reports sounded optimistic, but each speaker found a nagging failure in his own area to spoil the picture.

A parade of speakers, each with his eye on Premier Khrushchev, expressed full indorsement of the plan he outlined Monday for a sweeping reorganization of the communist party and the whole regime of industrial and agricultural management.

Labor Chairman Volkov touched on one of the sore spots in Soviet industry when he stressed a need to provide material incentives to workers.

Analysis of Premier Khrushchev's opening speech, which filled 7½ pages in Soviet newspapers Tuesday, indicated little except hard work and more sacrifice in store for the average workman.

Less For Consumer

Khrushchev said the next year would bring more consumer goods, but the rate of increase in the spending for the good things of life is slowing down. So is the spending even for heavy industry, although Premier Khrushchev told the Central Committee it was going to get the lion's share of Soviet expansion money.

He said the plan for 1963 called for an increase in heavy industry production of 8.5%. That was a cut from 8.8% in the plan for this year.

More painful to consumers was his report that light industry—which makes things like stockings and razor blades—would increase 6.3% next year. This year the planned increase had been 6.6%.

Electrical Inspectors Talk Over 'Shockers'

Although much of the talk was far above the heads of the man-in-the-street, state electrical inspectors were discussing some "shocking" problems in American homes and offices.

Delegates to the annual state meeting of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors—including representatives from utilities, insurance groups, contractors, wiremen, wholesalers and manufacturers—spent the day discussing the latest in methods and laws to protect the public from the natural dangers of misusing electric current.

O. K. Coleman of Lafayette, Ind., an official of the Edison Electric Institute, sparked his review of changes in the 1962 electric razors.

practical facts on safety of electric razors. Only two fatalities have ever been recorded from the potentially lethal appliance, both occurring when the shaver fell into the water and the victim tried to retrieve it without disconnecting it from the electrical outlet.

Dangerous Times

Coleman related incidents showing danger situations caused by using electric lawn mowers and hedge trimmers when safety precautions were heeded.

He also cautioned delegates on the hazards of using underwater lighting in swimming pools.

Pointing to a mushrooming use of electrical appliances in the modern home, he noted that the electrical capacity of homes only a few years old may be already overburdened.

Construction Of New Laws Home Almost Complete

The construction of a new home for the James Laws family, whose former home at 6601 Logan was destroyed by fire Aug. 29, is nearing completion, thanks to volunteer work.

"This Saturday the Cement Masons' Local 22 is going to do the cement finishing which should nearly complete the house," said Dave Filbert, business representative of the Building and Construction Trades Council.

Thus will be applied the finishing touches to a job begun Sept. 22 when the excavating was done. Construction companies, labor union, local businesses, and other volunteers joined together to accomplish the task in a little more than two months.

New Solon Wants School Tax From Air Base Feeders

A freshman senator who will take office in January disclosed Tuesday he is moving to draft legislation by which commercial livestock feeders operating on state-owned land would pay school taxes just as do similar operators on privately owned land.

Senator-elect Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont said the move is prompted by the recent lease of Bruning Air Base land to commercial livestock feeders.

Rasmussen said he is working with Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, in whose district the Bruning base is located, to draft a proposed bill.

Tax exemption which lesses of state-owned land appear to have on such feeder operations is not equitable, Rasmussen said.

The apparent exemption has been one of the grounds on which the National Farmers Organization (NFO) has questioned the propriety of the Bruning Air Base lease by the State Aeronautics Department.

How Do You Convince Millions To Stay Alive?

How do you convince 60 million Americans to save their own lives?

One effort in this direction was made in Lincoln Tuesday when Dr. John Holtiwanger, University of Illinois engineering professor, addressed more than 60 architects, business and construction industry representatives and government officials on the whys and hows of protection against radioactive fallout.

A mass shelter program, the official estimated, could provide safety for 60 million persons who would otherwise die in event of an all-out nuclear attack on the U.S.

20,000 Briefed

According to the Office of Civil Defense, about 20,000 persons are taking part in similar briefings being held across the nation this week.

Emphasis is on protection from fallout, rather than defense against heat and shock waves generated by a nuclear blast, the speaker explained, is due to the great areas endangered by fallout in comparison to the much smaller areas affected by the other deadly nuclear reactions.

Dr. Holtiwanger described shelter construction ranging from a tiny sandbag structure built in a private home basement to a shelter designed and stocked to house thousands for two weeks.

Low-Level Rays

On the lighter side, he noted that 90% of present low-level radiation absorbed by the human body comes from medical and dental X-rays and the natural radioactivity in the soil and the human body itself.

The other 10% is absorbed about equally from 4 less obvious sources: television receivers, nuclear weapons testing, the nuclear power industry and luminous dials on watches, etc.

The Illinois technologist is one of about 80 persons who have made a special study of protective construction and are giving briefings on the subject throughout the country.

BRIEFEST LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL SESSION ENDS

Barring an unforeseen special session, Nebraska lawmakers from the 1961 session met officially for the final time Tuesday when the Legislative Council adjourned at 10:50 a.m.—thus concluding probably the briefest meeting in Council history.

The meeting was short in duration, but long on words as members heard a record number of reports on studies conducted by their various committees over the past 15 months on many problems facing state government.

Contained in many of those words were some sweeping recommendations for legislation which could mark a pronounced change in Nebraska's way of life—particularly on the subject of taxation.

The reports also promised that the 1963 session of the Legislature which convenes Jan. 1 will be faced with rugged debate on many of the issues covered by the committees.

Sen. Fern Orme Acknowledges A Speaker Interest

Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln confirmed Tuesday she is interested in becoming the first woman ever elected speaker of the Nebraska Legislature.

She said she would consider the post an "outstanding honor."

Others who have declared themselves in the running include Sens. William Moulton of Omaha, Jules Burbach of Crofton and Harold Stryker of Rising City.

Stocks Resume Upward Drive

New York (AP) — The stock market resumed its upward drive Tuesday, fueled by good news from the international as well as the domestic business fronts. Trading was active.

Predictions by analysts that the market was in for a period of consolidation following its 3-week rally were flouted as stock prices more than wiped out their decline of Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average made a new high in its recovery from the 1962 low reached last June, rising 6.75 to 632.94, nearly 100 points above the June bottom of 535.76.

In the final hour came surprise news that Peking radio had reported the Communist Chinese troops intend to stop firing against Indian forces. This was a big factor easing Wall Street's concern about a possible turn for the worse in the international scene.

By that time, the Street seemed to show little concern about what President Kennedy was to say in his night news conference on the Cuban effort to ship back to Russia the Soviet jet bombers in Cuba. At the same time, the improvement of economic indicators reported for October

WITNESS TESTIFIES—

Walker Urged Student Charge

Oxford, Miss. (AP)—Attorneys for Edwin A. Walker urged a federal judge Tuesday "not . . . to pollute the records" of the court with a court-ordered mental test in considering the government's charges against the former major general.

Attorneys for Walker, a major figure in bloody desegregation riots at the University of Mississippi, attacked the order for the mental test as unconstitutional.

They presented their arguments at the start of a hearing on their motion to eliminate any reference to the test in Walker's case.

The hearing was before U.S. District Judge Claude F. Clayton.

Walker's attorneys based their motion on grounds that no federal attorney presented a bill of information against Walker and no grand jury returned an indictment.

The government attorneys, headed by U.S. Atty. H. M. Ray, maintained the order was legal. Ray said such examinations are permissible any time after an arrest and before a sentence is handed down.

The hearing then recessed until 9 a.m. CST Wednesday.

Seditious
The government's suit charged Walker with seditious conspiracy and inciting insurrection after the Sept. 30 riot which erupted after the arrival of Negro James H. Meredith on the Ole Miss campus to register as a student. Two persons were killed and scores were injured.

Walker was arrested the next day.

Walker's activities on campus were described Tuesday by one of 4 government witnesses, Burns Tatum, chief of the Ole Miss campus police for the last 12 years.

Tatum testified that on the night of the riot he heard Walker tell a group of students — some armed with rocks — to charge.

Near Monument
Tatum said he first saw Walker on the campus near the Confederate monument in front of the Lyceum, the registration building and scene of the heaviest fighting.

Tatum said he was with a group of students when one of them saw the former Army officer and said that it was Walker.

He said the students then left him and approached Walker. Under cross-examination, Tatum said he did not see any troops but between 300 to 400 federal marshals were on the scene.

Tatum said he was standing about 10 to 15 feet from Walker, who had a paper cup in his hand, and heard him say, "Col. Birdsong has let you down. Gov. (Ross) Barnett is your guard. Charge."

Col. T. B. Birdsong is head of the Mississippi Highway Patrol which had numerous units in the area.

Tatum said he remained in the area around Walker until tear gas forced him to leave.

Walker's attorneys argued the examination was ordered not on the basis of personal knowledge but on hearsay reports.

They contended that Walker's public image throughout the nation had been damaged.

The government has maintained that the mental examination was ordered to determine whether Walker was sane and could help in his own defense. The results of the tests have not been revealed.

DiSalle frees man

John P. Halloran of Cleveland, Ohio, for 29 years a prison fugitive until his arrest last October, smiles while approaching newsmen following his release Tuesday from Ohio penitentiary. Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, noting Halloran had rehabilitated himself by becoming husband, father and trusted citizen, commuted his 1-20 year term for burglary and auto theft.

Hit Extremists With 'Glare Of Publicity'

... SAYS SCHOOL OFFICIAL

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—The only place to fight the extremists who seek to impose their political beliefs on the public schools is in the spotlight of glaring publicity, the California superintendent of schools said Tuesday.

The superintendent, Roy E. Simpson, said there is one California group leading an attack on a literature textbook that includes the work of Carl Sandburg, Pulitzer Prize winning poet and historian.

"The attack is based on the contention that Carl Sandburg is an alleged communist front," Simpson told the Council of Chief State School Officers.

Contention
"The contention is advanced that no literature book that includes a selection by Sandburg should be used in any of our schools."

Simpson, who retires in January after 17 years in the job, said there is no room for compromise and "the only effective means of combat is the development of glaring publicity which will awaken the sensible people of our communities."

"There is considerable evidence," he continued, "that our real problem is that of apathy and indifference, misinformation, and lack of information."

Unawareness
"There is also a general unawareness, even among informed people, that the movement leading these attacks is not merely conservative but is authoritarian."

Simpson said the pressures applied by individuals and groups upon state departments of education are intense and probably will increase.

Many are good pressures, which have brought about spectacular improvements in the schools, he said, citing new programs in science and mathematics.

Notes Furor
Angus B. Rothwell, Wisconsin superintendent of schools, told of the national furor last year when Twin Lakes, Wis. adopted the 19th Century McGuffey Reader as a basic type of instruction.

Rothwell's department told the Twin Lakes school board that the McGuffey Readers were not approved and threatened to withhold state aid.

Within Wisconsin, Rothwell said, "the matter was viewed with considerable humor, and no other school district indicated any interest in supporting the use of McGuffey Readers for any purpose."

Uninformed
But across the nation, he added, "emotional and uninformed individuals reacted vigorously."

"Some thought they saw communism as the issue, others saw lack of appreciation of the teaching of morals, quite a few thought that the old way of teaching reading was better, and others saw in the books a superior method of teaching patriotism."

The issue has been peacefully settled, Rothwell said. The McGuffey Readers are still on the classroom shelves, but they are not being used as the basic method of instruction.

Democrats Report Receipts, Expenses

The State Democratic Central Committee Tuesday reported receipts of $8,193 and expenses of $5,562 during the recent political campaign.

The report submitted to the Secretary of State included $6,261 on hand October 23 in the total receipts. The committee's cash balance as of November 16 was $2,631.

Republican Frank Marsh, re-elected Secretary of State, reported expenses of $667. Charles Broderick of Omaha, defeated Democratic candidate for State Auditor, listed $158 in expenses.

Legislative candidates who reported:

—W. H. Hasebrook of West Point, 12th District, $383.

—Chester Graff of Bancroft, 2nd District, $538.

—Dwain Williams of Broken Bow, 35th District, $775.

Stromer Gets Support For Council Chief

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln was gaining strong support Tuesday to be elected chairman of the 1963 Legislative Council—presiding officer over the interim body of the Legislature.

Stromer confirmed he was interested in the position.

"If I should be elected, I would work hard to give real service to the various committees which will be set up to make studies during the next interim period," Stromer said.

He stated he believed his being a Lincoln resident could be "an advantage" in that he would be able to keep in close touch with the Legislative Council office and also could readily attend meetings of each committee.

"It sometimes works a hardship on outstate senators to come to Lincoln for all committee meetings," Stromer noted.

Felon Hides; Police Seek; Soukup Finds

A 26-year-old man, sought by police on a felony warrant from the State of Washington, was located early Tuesday hiding in an apartment house closet.

Capt. Robert Sawdon said the warrant charged grand larceny by check and that a fugitive complaint had also been issued against the man Tuesday by the Lancaster County attorney's office.

Two officers, Lyle Bigley and Paul Spahn, checked the apartment where the man was reported to be living Monday night, but his wife told them she had not seen her husband since morning.

Rush In
Bigley and Spahn were later replaced in observing the apartment by Detectives Frank Soukup and Delmar Carlson, who soon saw a cab drive up and a man rush from it into the apartment house.

The cab driver told the man his passenger had gone to get money to pay him, but the wanted man's wife came outside instead and paid the fare.

Soukup returned to the apartment with her and found her husband hiding in a small closet across the hall.

Burbach Probing Schroeder Funds On School Buses

Sen. J. W. Burbach of Crofton said Tuesday he is exploring the possibility of extending use of Schroeder mail route funds to cover school bus routes.

Burbach said mail routes and school bus routes do not always coincide and portions of school bus routes sometimes go unimproved.

Under the current gas tax allocation formula, 15% goes to counties for mail route improvement. Burbach said he is checking whether this mail route fund or some other highway fund might best be used to provide school bus route improvement money.

Burbach said he is interested also in a suggestion that school buses be provided with two-way radios. These would become particularly useful during wintry weather when buses are in danger of getting stuck in snow and need help, he said.

'Specific' Power Realignment Urged

The manager of the Eastern Nebraska Public Power District Tuesday urged the Nebraska Public Power Committee to submit to the 1963 Legislature "a specific and definite plan" for reorganization of public power districts.

In a brief appearance before NPPC members, Irvin H. Smith proposed "major realignments in functional responsibilities and in the pattern of territorial service areas."

Until such action is taken, he said, "inefficiencies will multiply and pyramid until rates, in much of Nebraska, will unquestionably be higher than they should be in an all-public power state."

In fact, even today, Smith said, he is "thoroughly convinced . . . the people of Nebraska are not deriving the benefits that would be possible under a more economical arrangement of public power operation."

Smith voiced opposition to creation of a regulatory state power commission.

This "would not cure the ills which beset us — it would only serve to perpetuate them," he declared.

Major realignment would "promote growth and prosperity in all parts of Nebraska," the Syracuse official said.

"It is very probable that some of us may stand to be hurt a little" by reorganization, Smith pointed out, but power leaders ought to "change our dreams and our ambitions" in the interests of the state.

Templeton Elected

Broken Bow—Carroll Templeton was selected president of the Broken Bow Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Tedd C. Huston. Other officers are Bob Koozer, first vice president, and Charles Holcomb, second vice president.

TOMEK BACKS MEYERS' WORK IN VETS POST

The commander of the Nebraska Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) has voiced support of Lawrence Meyers for retention of his position as state veterans affairs director.

William E. (Bill) Tomek of David City said the VFW and other "responsible veterans" in the state believe Meyers is doing a "very satisfactory job."

He said reports that some veterans organizations are moving to have Meyers replaced are merely rumors designed to give the impression that some veterans organizations are dissatisfied with the present director.

Tomek said the VFW has no reason to believe at this time that the governor plans to replace Meyers.

Humboldt, Genoa Hospital Visit Set

A committee composed of some members of the State Board of Health and some members of the State Hospital Advisory Council will visit Humboldt and Genoa soon to discuss hospital problems with local officials.

This was decided at a State Board of Health meeting in Lincoln Monday following a detailed report on Nebraska hospitals by State Hospital

Director Verne Pangborn.

Pangborn said he would arrange dates for the meetings.

The Health Board voted to accept the free loan services of a Public Health Service officer to help direct health mobilization work in Nebraska in connection with Civil Defense health problems.

The PHS officer is Milton Parker, a CD health program representative.

State Health Director Dr. E. A. Rogers briefed the board on a report made by PHS officials of cases of paralytic diseases in Nebraska, including polio. The board took no action on the report.

The board also approved 5 new appointments to various state examining boards. They were:

W. J. Simin, D.V.M., of Beatrice, to the Veterinary Medicine Board.

Donovan G. Butler of Hastings, to the Funeral Directors and Embalmers Board.

Harry Dinnel, R.P.T. of Omaha, to the Physical Therapy Board.

Norman F. Svoboda, D.C., of Fremont, to the Podiatry Board.

C. E. Brown, D.O., of Nebraska City, to the Osteopathy Board.

Council Orders 2,500 Copies Of Tax Report

The Legislative Council's tax committee has ordered 2,500 copies of the tax study report prepared by Dr. Harold McClland, California economist and educator.

The copies will be made available to interested citizens free of charge as long as the copies last.
